New Automobile Speed.
$100,000,000? Bagatelle.
Welcoming Dear Uncle.
The Indians' Drum.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AT DAYTONA BEACH, FLA., yesterday, Maj. Segrave, a British sportsman, ran his "Golden Arrow" automobile, which looks like a sharp dagger, at a speed better than 231 miles an hour.

This is interesting but not important, except as it encourages production of better metal and more reliable machinery.

The speed reached has no value, since it cannot be used on the surface of the earth; nevertheless, it is encouraging. If men can go 231 miles an hour on the ground, how fast will they go through the air?

One thousand miles an hour some day, around the earth with the sun overhead all the way.

NEW YORK CITY, spending every year as much as the national government used to spend before the war, yesterday ordered tunnels and bridges to cost $107,000,000.

Once that would have been called "a great deal of money." The nation hesitated about spending $250,000,000 on the Panama Canal.

NOW individual Wall street firms organize $100,000,000 concerns with little discussion and no emotion at all. Figures and wealth are growing bigger.

HOW willing Europe is to take dear Uncle Sam into the World Court. He may be "Uncle Shylock," but how pleasant it would be to tie him up with decisions of a foreign court, voting 10 to 1 against him.

"Do whatever you please," says Europe to Uncle Sam, "if only we can get our hands on you."

AN INTERESTING explanation of Mexican revolutionists' success in taking Juarez. Yaqui Indians were with the revolutionists and others were in the regular Mexican army.

The Indians with the revolutionists sent a message by drum beat to the federal Yaquis, telling them to come over, and they came.

In Mexico, Indians are among the most devout of the Catholic population, and sympathize with the revolution.

Such announcements are at best uncertain, although there is little doubt as to the final result.

THERE is no doubt at all that American airplane manufacturers are busy, thanks to this Mexican war.

The Vought aircraft factory on Long Island is working day and night turning out a fleet of swift fighting airplanes ordered by Mexico. Other American factories, with the approval of Washington, are engaged in the same work.

The most ardent revolutionist on the ground has little chance against bullets and bombs from the air.

LATEST prohibition news. A Navy official complains of Charlestown speakeasies, describing them as "the worst holes he knows." In Tennessee two doctors are held on a charge of murder, for operating, while intoxicated, on a boy 12 years old. The boy is dead.

DOCTORS usually write their prescriptions so illegibly that the average citizen has no idea what is in them. That needs changing, if necessary, by law.

When a doctor prescribes drugs you have a right to know what he is giving you, and especially when habit-forming drugs are given.

ILLEGIBLE doctors' prescriptions date back to a time when doctors in London were usually more or less drunk after dinner if they were prosperous. Therefore, all doctors wrote prescriptions illegibly. But that's gone by. A doctor drinking to excess is the great exception.

MISGUIDED human beings, including British Tories, have said that universal suffrage is bad. "Why," they ask, "should the ignorant, debased masses be allowed to vote when they cannot possibly understand government?"

IN LONDON, at present, the Tories are busy answering their own question, with a frantic effort to clean up the slums and thus get votes for the Conservative party at the coming election.

THE masses may be too ignorant to understand government, but they are not too ignorant to understand misery.

When you let everybody vote, the man in power must worry about EVERYBODY, instead of worrying only about his own class. For that reason it was very important to give women the vote.

Politicians might ask, "What do the women want?" and try to give it to them.

Mother on Liquor Jury Helps Jail Another

"EXAMPLE" MADE OF WOMAN

A mother of two children was sent to jail for three months today because she had in her possession two gallons of moonshine. She was also fined $100.

The mother was Mrs. Catherine Tonski, 48, of 3147 Arlington avenue. Following her conviction, Visiting Judge Charles M. Culver, of Bradford County, sentenced her.

MADE "EXAMPLE"

"Persons who come to this country and try to drag it down to the standards of their own should be made examples of," the Bradford County jurist pronounced. "I believe in the Eighteenth Amendment and I believe it can be enforced."

Mrs. Tonski was charged with sale and possession of the moonshine, but the jury acquitted her on the sale count.

SALES DENIED

Mrs. Tonski, testifying in her own defense, told of a man bringing the moonshine to her home and of her son hiding the stuff in the davenport. Never, she added, had she sold the moonshine.

Two of the 12 jurors were Mrs. Marian LaVictoria, of 838 Sheridan avenue, and her son, Jack LaVictoria, a law student. They and their colleagues were locked up last night to deliberate and early today reached a sealed verdict.

De Pusy, Lafayette Descendant, in U. S.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP.)—The great-great-grandson of Marquis De Lafayette, comrade-in-arms of George Washington, arrived yesterday on the United States liner George Washington for his first visit to America. He is Comte Gilbert De Pusy and he accompanied a delegation of the Association Amicale Des Croix De Querre, which anticipates organizing an American branch. The delegation plans to place a wreath on the Washington-Lafayette Monument in Washington and call on President Hoover.

Ethel Barrymore Suffers Relapse

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP.)—As a result of taking part in a benefit performance Sunday night against the advice of her physician, Ethel Barrymore, who was ill with influenza, has suffered a relapse. Miss Barrymore was taken ill last week and took part in the benefit for the Duse Fellowship, although she had a temperature of 103 degrees. It was said she probably would not be able to resume her role in "The Kingdom of God" for several days.

N.-Y. WELCOMES WILKINS

NEW YORK, March 12.—(INS.)—Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins returned today from the Antarctic, and immediately began talking about going back again.

He returned as the hero of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic expedition, with a parade up Broadway, a reception at the City Hall, and his fiancee waiting for him.

Eielson

The latter, Miss Suzanne Bennett, was at the dock, waving an American flag as the liner Ebro steamed in from Havana. Sir Hubert greeted her in the immemorial custom of returning heroes and she joined him in a reception held in the lounge of the Ebro.

"Our work has only begun," Wilkins said. "We will have to go back year by year and the real

Arms Smugglers Shoot Americans

EL PASO, Tex., March 12.—(AP.)—An attempt to smuggle arms and ammunition across the international border was frustrated late last night after a gun battle in which two American patrolmen were wounded.

FEDERALS TAKE BORDER TOWN

BISBEE, Ariz., March 12.—(AP.)—Unconfirmed advices received here today reported the capture of Naco, Sonora, by Mexican federal forces. Naco is a border town in the heart of revolutionary territory. The same advices indicated a battle was imminent at Agua Prieta, Sonora, 30 miles east of Naco.

Naco reports said 1,200 soldiers under command of Gen. Agustino Olachea took possession of Naco, 12 miles south of here, and captured Juan Jiminez, rebel commander of the town, with 25 of his followers.

Gen. Olachea announced the immediate dispatch of 400 men to Agua Prieta, across the line from Douglas, Ariz. Agua Prieta is controlled by a band of revolutionists under command of Rogerio Loreto, mayor, who went over to the revolution early last week.

CALLES PLANS ATTACK

Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, commanding the Federal army of the center, in Mexico, is massing artillery and airplanes for an attack against the rebels entrenched in the hills on the Durango-Coahuila border.

Rebel forces in that region have taken up powerful positions in the hills near Torreon from which it would be almost impossible to drive them with infantry.

Another battle is believed impending at Saltillo. Gen. Juan Escober, one of the chief rebel leaders in the north, who was previously reported at Torreon, is said to be at Saltillo. Federal airmen who flew over Saltillo yesterday reported the rebels feverishly at work throwing up earthworks and barricades.

AL SMITH INSTALLS GRIND ORGAN IN BILTMORE HOTEL

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP.)—The Evening Post says today that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith has taken up music—the sort of music often heard on the lower East Side where he first learned to love the sidewalks of New York.

Mr. Smith, in short, says the Post, has bought him a handorgan, and he has installed it, of all places, in the decorous Hotel Biltmore where he has a suite.

For days other occupants of the Biltmore wondered whence came those ancient strains—"Darling I am Growing Old," "Ach, Du Lieber Augistine," "East Side, West Side" and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." Today the secret was out. It was Mr. Smith playing his grind organ.

It seems that the John J. Raskob children have a barrel organ. Mr. Smith saw it and wasn't happy until he had one himself.

There were guests in the Smith suite on the day the organ arrived, and the story runs that the former governor prowled among them with a mysterious grin until two men lugged in a crate. "Open her up," he said, and in five minutes he was grinding out "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and the other old-time favorites in the organ's repertoire. The Smith hurdy-gurdy is bravely painted in green with fine red trimmings.

"Now if I only had one of those monkeys from my old Albany zoo," the former governor is quoted as saying on that first musical evening, "I could go out and make a good living."

MAY EXPEL LUTHERAN MINISTER

The Rev. George F. Hegele, of Greenock, little community near McKeesport, faces banishment as a minister and expulsion from the Pittsburgh Synod of the Lutheran Church, it was revealed today.

Already without a charge as a result of forced resignation from the pulpits of Peace Lutheran Church, Greenock, and St. John's Church, Dravosburg, Mr. Hegele appeared yesterday before a special synodical committee of the Pittsburgh synod appointed by the Rev. Dr. Ellis B. Burgess, synodical president.

Rev. Hegele

The hearing was held behind closed doors at the First Lutheran Church, Duquesne. Neither Mr. Hegele nor any members of the committee would discuss what transpired at the hearing.

NEWS SUPPRESSED

"The laws of the synod make it mandatory for us not to give out any statement," declared the Rev. Elmer F. Rice, pastor of the church and a member of the committee.

Mr. Heagle also refused to discuss the case. It was intimated that the findings of the committee and their recommendations will be submitted to Dr. Burgess, in whom is vested the authority to either dismiss the case or refer it to the synod for trial.

Mr. Hegele expressed the belief that he is the victim of a conspiracy, leaders of which are de-

BIG CAR PRIMED FOR SPEED TEST

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 12.—(AP.)—Despite weather conditions which were growing more unfavorable, J. M. White, owner of the 36-cylinder triplex racing automobile, issued orders for the machine to be towed to the speedway at 2 p. m., for an attempt to break Maj. H. C. D. Segrave's speed record of 231.36 miles per hour, set yesterday.

Clouds obscured the sun and a light rain fell shortly before noon. The rain ceased, however, and, White, returning from a trip to the beach, said that visibility was good and that the Speedway appeared in better condition than yesterday.

Lee Bible, local mechanic, will drive the big car if he passes several trial runs ordered by the contest board of the American Automobile Association.

Val Haresnape, secretary of the board, said Bible would be allowed to drive the car at successively higher speeds until it was determined whether he should have sanction to open wide the throttle.

Meanwhile, White, a Philadelphia manufacturer who built the Triplex as a hobby, was certain his car would set a higher mark than Segrave's Golden Arrow.

Among the messages of congratulations received by Segrave today was one from the Prince of Wales. The Englishman conferred with his advisors concerning whether he should let his record stand, if the Triplex fails to better it, or try the maximum theoretical speed of 240 miles per hour credited to the Golden Arrow.

METRO BILL HEARING MAR. 19

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 12.—A public hearing on the Pittsburgh Metropolitan District charter will be held here Tuesday afternoon, March 19, at 2 o'clock, Senator M. G. Leslie, sponsor of the measure, announced today.

The hearing was called by Senator A. F. Daix, Philadelphia, chairman of the Judiciary General Committee, at the request of many persons who desire to amend the charter proposed by the Metropolitan District Commission of which Joseph T. Miller is chairman.

The bill was reported out of the Judiciary Committee, to which it was sent after being introduced last night, this morning, by Senator William D. Mansfield, McKeesport. In reporting the bill, Mansfield explained that he did so merely to have copies printed and that it will be recommitted.

The first open declaration against the bill came today from Representative John A. Rhodes, McKeesport.

"I intend to vote 'No' as emphatically as I can," he declared. "That statement is for publication if you want it."

3 INDICTED IN BORKOSKI CASE

Grand jurors today indicted W. J. Lyster, Harold Watts and Frank Slapakis, ex-coal and iron policemen, charged with the murder of John Borkoski, Tyre miner.

Only three witnesses were summoned. John Higgins, friend and companion of the man beaten to death in the barracks of Pittsburgh Coal Company police at Imperial, was the first witness called. He was to be followed by County Detectives Robert L. McMillan and Frank Ritz.

Lyster, a former lieutenant of the coal company police; Watts, a corporal, and Slapakis, a private, were ordered held for the grand jury on charges of first degree murder by the coroner's jury. The death of the miner created a furore and caused the introduction of bills in the Legislature designed to curb private police activities.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 12.—(AP.)—Vice President Curtis today was taking things easy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Lesker here, having come to Florida on a promise that he can rest and that the sun will be good for his rheumatism.

"I'm going to try to 'bake out' a little," he said, adding that he does not know whether he will follow President Hoover's example and fish. He has ordered all his mail held in Washington.

DEMARIS DORE

DANCER NAMES "FAT" WALSH'S SLAYER

NEW YORK, March 12.—(INS.)—Demaris Dore, dancer, who said she witnessed the slaying of Thomas (Fatty) Walsh in the Miami Biltmore Hotel, Coral Gables, Fla., has named Eddie Wilson, New York and Chicago gambler, as the killer, police revealed here today.

They said that Miss Dore told them there were two motives for the slaying and that they believe her story. The motives, the dancer claimed, were a gambling debt of $8,000 owed Wilson by Walsh and a quarrel during a more or less sociable game of cards.

ANGERED AT TAUNTS

Walsh "kidded" Wilson about his card playing, police declared Miss Dore told them, and mimicked Wilson's pronounced stutter.

Walsh's jeering led Wilson to suddenly jump to his feet, according to the girl's story, and fire a number of shots. Wilson fled, as did others in the room.

Stinson Takes Air In Endurance Test

BAY CITY, Mich., March 12.—(AP.)—Thrice balked by inclement weather, Eddie Stinson, of Detroit, took off from the ice of Saginaw Bay near here at 11:17 o'clock this morning in another attempt at the non-refueling airplane endurance flight record.

He was accompanied as co-pilot by George Hopkins, of Detroit.

Moderate temperatures which melted the ice of the bay, high winds and motor trouble resulted in the failure of the previous attempts. The last try was made last Sunday.

AFFIDAVIT SWORN BY PRINCETON MANAGER

If county authorities wish to communicate with Alfred W. Forney, alleged missing slot machine syndicate king, they probably can reach him through "John A. Forney" at the Princeton Club, New York. The telephone number is Caledonia 2600.

It was in that club Thursday that the affidavit was made which Forney's attorney, Hiram D. Hirsh, presented to Judge James B. Drew yesterday as an explanation of his client's failure to appear for trial on 16 gambling charges.

NOTARY LOCATED

That affidavit, purporting to be signed by one Dr. J. R. Emery, related that Forney was suffering from influenza and hemoptysis (a condition usually due to hemorrhage of the lungs). It bore the signature and seal of Alfred Lee, notary public.

From his home at 323 Mosholu avenue, the Bronx, last night, Lee related over the telephone how he had come to attest that affidavit.

Lee is assistant manager at the club. Things were brisk on Thursday evening.

"The paper was brought to me," said Lee. "And I stamped it and signed it without reading the text. I didn't think it was necessary to read it, because it was John A. Forney that brought it.

KNOWS "FORNEY" WELL

"John A. Forney? Why, sure, I've known him off and on for 20 years. No, I don't know what his business is. But I think he's originally from Arizona, somewhere in the West. Anyway, it's not New York.

"I can't recall hearing the name 'Dr. Emery,' or seeing it on the paper. Of course, I didn't look for it. I took it for granted that it was John A. Forney's signature.

"Yes, I'm pretty sure it wasn't Dr. Emery. How do I know?

GIRL, 18, LEADS ANNOYER INTO TRAP—AND 90 DAYS

How a pretty 18-year-old girl successfully trapped a Negro accused of molesting white girls in the Oakland section was revealed in Morals Court today.

The girl, Dorothy Carroll, of 63 Brenham street, testified that when the Negro followed her in Beelen street last night she led him to the spot where two young men friends lay in wait. After a chase they captured him.

Laura Walker, 17, of 459 Beelen street, and Ann Malloy, 18, of 36 Beelen street, identified the Negro, Russell Edwards, 29, of 1 Sherman street as the man who had molested them.

Edwards denied the charge, but was sentenced to 90 days in the workhouse.

James Spence, 19, of 63 Lawn street, and Leo Walker, of 459 Beelen street, testified to capturing the Negro.

P. S. C. HEARS 1-MAN CAR PROTEST

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 12.—The members of the Public Service Commission are studying the briefs filed by opposing counsel in the complaint filed by the City of McKeesport against the operation of one-man cars along Evans avenue in that city.

While the case is being studied the bill of Representative George Howe, Clairton, which would prevent the operation of such cars on streets where there are heavy grades, moved along in the House, is on second reading today.

ATTORNEYS ARGUE

Arguments in the McKeesport case against the Pittsburgh Railways Company were heard by the commission yesterday, opposing counsel being City Solicitor Harry S. Jones and P. H. McCance. Both reviewed the testimony presented by witnesses at hearings in Pittsburgh December, Jones contending that the evidence showed that it is unsafe to operate "one-man" cars on Evans avenue, while McCance contended that they are safer than street cars operated by two.

"This is the steepest long grade traversed by an electric line in the city of McKeesport and one of the steepest in Allegheny County," declared Jones. "It is not the contention of the city of McKeesport, nor do we seek to prove, that one man cars are dangerous and undesirable under all conditions."

NINE PER CENT GRADE

The character of Evans avenue, which has a grade that in places exceeds 9 per cent, makes operation of one man cars "not only dangerous but an inconvenience to the public, and very apt to cause serious delays in traffic, a matter in which any city has a right during these days of ever-increasing traffic congestion, to complain of," stated Jones.

The testimony showed, according to Jones, that the safety devices placed in the cars have failed.

"We feel that this testimony should prevail rather than the theoretical argument that men work better when compelled to perform two or more tasks at the same time," said the City Solicitor.

"The operator must make change, sell tickets, give transfers, and answer such questions as travelers may legitimately ask him," he continued, "before the car can be put in motion. It goes without saying that this is so much lost time and therefore cannot do otherwise than block traffic."

DENIES DANGERS

McCance contended, in general, that one-man cars have been proved by experience to be safer than two-man cars and that the complainant has not advanced an argument that couldn't be advanced against cars manned by two men as well as against those with a single operator as a crew.

"We are of the opinion that none of the evidence in this proceeding indicates that the operation of a one-man car on Evans avenue is dangerous," he said. "We believe that experience proves that the operation of one-man cars generally and on Evans avenue or routes similar thereto, is at least as safe with the one-man car as with a car upon which two men are employed."

No one attached to the commission would hazard an opinion when the decision will be rendered in the case.

Bar Members Voting On Judicial Choice

Five hundred and fifty votes had been cast in the Allegheny County Bar Association balloting for a judge of Orphans' Court within 24 hours after the ballots had been sent, the special committee conducting the vote announced today.

This represents one-third of the entire membership.

The candidates of the 12 entered, receiving 60 per cent or more of the votes will be recommended by the association to Governor Fisher for choice in naming a successor to the late Judge J. J. Miller. Ballots will be counted Saturday noon.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP.)—Five "counselors of divorce" to rule on the remarriage of divorced persons have been appointed by the presbytery of New York to replace a committee appointed for that purpose about a year ago.

FORNEY TRAIL LEADS TO CLUB

Well, I had only three papers to stamp that day.

"RIGHT UP IN 24"

"Oh, there's no question about John Forney being there. He's right up in room No. 24. But I'm sure I'd didn't sign no paper for Dr. Emery. Say, I never heard of that bird."

Lee said he had seen John A. Forney around the club many times, and that he appeared to be "a person in the vest best standing."

Lee suggested that the Princeton Club Forney might be a brother of Pittsburgh's Forney, but he knew of no such relationship himself.

Dr. Emery, located by telephone today, told the Pittsburg Sun-Telegraph he had been called to Forney's bedside "one day last week" in the Roosevelt Hotel and hadn't seen him since.

ADVISED REST

"I advised him to go away for a rest after he had recovered," Emery revealed.

"Did you know what the affidavit was to be used for?"

"No, not until your reporters told me."

"Who asked you to attend Forney?"

"I think it was a friend, probably."

"Do you have any idea where Forney is now?"

"No, I don't."

TOO MANY SPELLINGS

Additional evidence that Lee's examination of that affidavit was a casual one is contained in the document itself.

As it goes on its grammar and diction are highly questionable.

"I, John Emory, being duly sworn, deposes and says, that I am a registered physician and licensed to practice medicine in the state of New York.

"Alfred W. Forney is a patient of mine and has been under my care and observation. I made an examination today of Mr. Forney and I state that Mr. Forney is suffering from influenza and hemoptysis. As a result of his sickness he is confined to his bed and any movement to disturb him would be injurious to his health."

It was signed "J. R. Emery."

DETECTIVE ON TRAIL

County Detective James S. McGinley is in New York today seeking Forney. McGinley was instructed by Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren to "invite" Forney to return home and to the jurisdiction of local criminal courts. He left for New York last night.

BOND RECOVERY MAY BE PART OF RING'S LOOT

The $77,500 bonds yielded by Mannie Steinberg's automobile were believed by detectives today to be part of the loot of a series of big mail and bank robberies in this country and Canada.

Alexander M. Gibson, Canadian postal inspector, and Detective Sgt. Wilbur Dawn, of the Toronto police, arrived today and identified $20,000 of the bonds as part of the $125,000 mail robbery in Toronto last June 28.

The remainder, detectives believe, represents robberies in Indianapolis, Chicago, Wheeling, W. Va., and Erie County.

William Boven, sought, along with Morris Hendel, as the head of the robber gang, participated in a bank robbery in Indianapolis last February 27, according to circulars received by the detective bureau. Robberies also have been reported from the other cities named.

Steinberg was held over by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today after Detective Thomas Morgan testified to recovering the stolen securities. Steinberg is alleged to have received $100,000 bonds from Hendel.

In Morals Court Catherine Meyers and Harry Meyers, alias "Dopey Davis," arrested as suspects, were turned over to detectives for further questioning after which they will be released, according to detectives.

Harris Bill Would Aid Waiting Mothers

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 12.—A bill providing for a new method of allocating mothers' assistance funds among the various counties of Pennsylvania was introduced in the Legislature last night by Senator Frank J. Harris. It provides an appropriation of $3,497,522 for the next biennium and would wipe out the waiting lists of 1,900 widows and more than 6,000 children in the state who are eligible to receive mothers' assistance. The bill is sponsored by the Mothers' Pension League of Allegheny County.

Lynch and a squad at 1521 Marquis street. The still was located above a garage, reputed to be owned by Arthur Lucas, of 309 Jackson street. Police say they found a gallon of perfume in the Lucas home and a small quantity of the same stuff above the garage. They are searching for the owner.

He even hinted at the possibility of legal action, and promised startling disclosures in that event.

Mr. Hegele resigned as pastor of Peace Lutheran Church, March 1, upon the unanimous request of his congregation. A week later, he did likewise at the Dravosburg church. Members of the congregation and officers said they asked for his resignation because he had persistently disregarded their warnings not to use the pulpit for antagonistic political utterances during the presidential campaign.

"She is loaded with information," Police Commissioner Whalen said of Demaris. "She has proved a mine of information about the Walsh case. She knew Rothstein and all his associates."

The girl told police she had been a frequenter of Lindy's restaurant.

Miss Dore, blonde and petite, entered police headquarters with cheerful mien and self assured. Ten hours later she was near hysteria when detectives ended their questioning for the day and sent her to a hotel to spend the night, accompanied by a police matron.

EASY FOR ALL TO FILL OUT PETITIONS

Assisting the movement launched by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for a reduction in the tax on earned incomes, local merchants and chain store managers have joined in facilitating the signing of petitions to Congress.

As a result, every one now has an opportunity to voice his protest against the present tax on the income of professional people and on the pay of all wage earners.

F.W.M.McCulloch

Meanwhile, individual petitions and petitions clipped from the Sun-Telegraph and signed by the entire personnel of offices, factories, office buildings and households continue to pour in.

Fred W. M. McCulloch, Pittsburgh head of the Dow Drug Company, formerly the McCulloch Drug Company, today ordered petitions placed on the counters of each of the company's 19 stores. At the same time H. Davis, Pittsburgh manager for the United Cigar Stores, joined the campaign by instituting a similar procedure and Reymer & Bros., Inc., announced through George T. Price, vice president, that petitions would be placed in all confectionery stores, tea rooms and cigar stores.

PLAN PRAISED

The Sun-Telegraph and all the other Hearst newspapers deserve congratulations for taking up the cause of the professional men and women and wage earners in an effort to relieve them of the burden of an unfair tax," said Mr. McCulloch. "If wage earners and all other persons interested in this movement succeed in impressing Congress that there is an overwhelming sentiment for a lower tax on earned incomes, I am sure that relief will be granted immediately.

"The proper way to impress Congress is through petitions and the way to get petitions signed is to give the people every opportunity for attaching their signatures. That is why I am glad to co-operate and to invite every patron of our stores to sign these petitions. We will have a separate counter for income tax relief."

Edward B. Lee, architect, Chamber of Commerce Building, said:

"Professional people, salaried men and women and wage earners generally are patient and long suffering. While we hear much of farm relief, corporation relief and all that sort of thing, the wage earners have been going along quietly paying their taxes on their incomes without raising a word of protest. While men are growing old and are suffering from failing eyesight and hearing, they charge off nothing, but have been paying when the tax actually is a burden. Now that a movement has been started in their behalf, it is necessary that these people back it up with prompt action in signing petitions to be forwarded to Congress.

BAR TO ACT

Joseph Stadtfeld, president of the Allegheny County Bar Association, stated today that the resolution adopted by the association would be reported upon by the legislative committee, of which W. S. Dalzell is chairman.

"Mr. Dalzell is out of the city, but on his return I have no doubt that he will take up the matter immediately," said Stadtfeld. "Our next meeting is in May, and no action by the association can be taken unless we call a special meeting for that purpose. However, the cause is one that is winning friends every day and, if necessary to the success of the movement, I believe the members of the bar would feel justified in calling a meeting for that purpose."

Joseph Stadtfeld

The Dow Drug Company stores where Sun-Telegraph petitions are presented are located as follows: Chamber of Commerce Building, Clark Building, Roosevelt Hotel, Fort Pitt Hotel, Pennsylvania Station, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Penn avenue and Ninth street, Liberty avenue and Eighth street, Fifth avenue and Grant street, Diamond and Smithfield streets, Market street and Diamond square, Penn avenue and Stanwix street, 501 East Ohio street, 5939 Penn avenue, Forbes and Atwood streets, South Thirteenth and Carson streets and Braddock, Homestead and McKeesport.

Eleven stores of the United Cigar Stores Company will have the petitions on their counters.

CONTRIBUTIONS RELIEVE PLIGHT OF M'LAUGHLINS

A warm-hearted public has responded to the plight of Mrs. William J. McLaughlin, widowed mother, and her 10 children.

A number of those who read in the Sun-Telegraph how 10 days ago the father of the family was killed when a gasoline truck upset and exploded have lightened the burden of the brave little widow.

M. J. Flaherty, one of the proprietors of a chain of restaurants, today mailed his check for $50, to start a fund for the widow and her family. Three letters arrived, one containing a check for $10, another $1 in cash, another a promise to help.

A few days ago the Sun-Telegraph told its readers of the destitute circumstances in the McLaughlin's little house.

It told how from Dick, an 18-months-old toddler, these 10 McLaughlin's ranged to the eldest just past 18 years, and the only one working: Catherine, 18; Irene, 16; Mary, 15; Bill, 14; Celestine, 11; George, 10; Jack, 8; Peggy, 7; Betty, 4, and Dick, 18 months.

The Sun-Telegraph's story, a simple recital of the facts, was heard. There came the call from Mr. Flaherty.

Then W. G. McCraley, president of the Eureka Savings and Loan Association of Carnegie, wrote a $10 check and this note:

"Why not start a subscription for them? It is unthinkable that in the rich city of Pittsburgh a family of 11 must live on the $16 per week wage of an 18-year-old girl. Thousands of Pittsburghers think nothing of spending from $3 to $10 for an evening's entertainment and would gladly contribute."

Wallace G. Imhoff, president of a company bearing his name, wrote similarly. George R. Platkin, from Clairton, Pa., echoed the same thought.

All such contributions received by the Sun-Telegraph will be turned over to a recognized welfare organization for disposition to the best advantage of the McLaughlin family.

In a little more than a week a large sum has thus been distributed. Thrift and its reward are being discussed on all sides. If you have a savings account, you, too, may share in these rewards. Many of those who have claimed the awards thus far have been children, through parents and guardians who have opened savings accounts for them.

The $10 deposit to the credit of book No. 27,762 of the Colonial Trust Company, announced last Sunday, went to Samuel G. Anderson, 16, of 3073 Texas avenue, Dormont. He is one of three children whose father, Aaron Anderson, started savings accounts for them when they were babies.

The $10 deposit to the credit of book No. 725 of the Chartiers Trust Company went to Frank Burkis, of 3823 Windgap road, for the benefit of the children in his family. A deposit was made for each child at the time of baptism, and additions made from time to time to the account.

POSTOFFICES IN PLANES URGED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Air mail to Europe in giant dirigibles, landing fields on postoffice soofs and sorting of mail in the air will be the next steps in the government's development of the biggest air mail system in the world, Representative Cylde Kelly (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, predicted today.

As chairman of the House postoffice sub-committee in charge of air mail legislation, Kelly has been in charge of legislation for the building of the present vast service of 23 routes covering 31,000 miles.

Even greater extension of the air mail service lies in the near future, he declared today.

Legislation will be proposed in the next Congress to provide authority for letting air mail contracts to companies operating dirigibles across the Atlantic, and for establishment of "aerial postoffices," he said.

DIRIGIBLES IN VIEW

"While Congress has granted authority for carrying of mail to foreign countries, the rate is not sufficient to permit profitable operation of dirigibles," said Kelly. "I have a bill pending, which will be urged in the next Congress, to permit contracts with dirigibles at $3 a pound. Some airships, such as the Graf Zeppelin, could carry 10 tons of mail.

"While this is not a pressing problem, I believe legislation should be enacted to prepare us for developments which are certain to come.

DISTRIBUTION IN AIR

"We must enact legislation soon to provide for distribution of mail on airplanes, just as the railway mail service distributes mail on trains. This problem is already upon us.

"Air mail planes now are loaded to capacity. The mail must be distributed at landing fields, causing delay. Distribution aboard planes would save much time.

"When the problem of vertical landing is solved we must prepare to provide landing fields on postoffices and on railroad terminals. The greatest delay faced in the air mail service now is in getting mail from the landing field into the city postoffice."

Although the air mail is now losing $9,000,000 to $12,000,000 a year, Kelly predicted that it would soon be self-supporting. Legislation, he said, has been enacted with this in view.

AGREE ON VOTE BILL OF HARRIS

HARRISBURG, March 12.—The Harris voting machine bill with a few unimportant amendments probably will be reported favorably from the Senate elections committee. The differences of opinion that have divided proponents of voting machines as a means of stopping election frauds apparently have been settled.

This was indicated today when word was sent around that Senator Albert Davis, Scranton, author of the Rival Bill, himself intends to report the Harris measure for action.

The decision to report the bill sponsored by Frank J. Harris, Allegheny, was made last night at a meeting of a sub-committee composed of Senators Bertram G. Frazier, Philadelphia; William C. Freeman, Lebanon; William H. Clark, Delaware, and Harris and Davis.

It is not certain when the bill will be reported. Senator Davis announced he is not sure when he will call a meeting of the elections committee.

According to reports, an effort is planned by Allegheny and Philadelphia politicians to amend the bill to permit the use of voting machines at general elections only. In Pennsylvania, where the overwhelmingly Republican vote makes the primary the only important contest, such an amendment practically would nullify the voting machine proposal, which was approved by the voters of the state at the November election by a 400,000 majority.

HEARING DATE ON BLUE LAWS SET AT LAST

HARRISBURG, March 12.—The House Law and Order Committee, which for several weeks has been keeping a firm grasp upon the various measures designed to modify the "blue laws" of 1794 to meet modern conditions will meet tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Announcement of the meeting was made, not by Mrs. Ella C. Adams, of Uniontown, chairman of the committee, but by the Rev. Dr. T. T. Mutchler, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of Pennsylvania.

"When do you plan to hold a meeting of your committee?" Mrs. Adams was asked last night.

"I am trying to find out what the members want to do," Mrs. Adams said. "If they want to hold a hearing on these bills I am willing."

"But when will the committee meet?"

Mrs. Adams stated that when a time had been set it would be posted upon the bulletin.

A few seconds later Dr. Mutchler was interviewed, and asked when the committee would meet.

"Wednesday morning," he replied without hesitation. "I am not sure of the hour."

By some coincidence the committee is scheduled to meet the day following the "second convention of the friends of the proper observance of the Sabbath." This meeting opened today with a reception by Gov. John S. Fisher, followed by a luncheon in the Penn-Harris Hotel. Joseph M. Steele, president of the Philadelphia Sabbath Association, presided at the luncheon.

The address of welcome was delivered by Edward E. Beidleman, unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1926, when he was on the ticket as a running mate of Senator William S. Vare. Other speakers were Mayor Harry A. Mackey, of Philadelphia, and former Deputy Attorney General John R. Jones. Other sessions of the convention are scheduled for this afternoon and tonight.

Hoover Cuts Down On White House Receptions

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(AP.)—President Hoover is planning to cut to a minimum the public receptions which for years have been a daily feature of the White House program. This week instead of the customary six, the number has been reduced to two, and later, the President expects to hold but one each week.

It has been customary for the chief executive to receive each day, all who come to the White House with a letter of introduction from their senator or representative and at times the number of these has run into the thousands, consuming much of the President's time and interfering with conferences.

MORGANZA BOY FOUND FROZEN

The body of 13-year-old Andrew Skupien, escaped ward of the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza, was found in a work coach of the Montour Railroad at Montour Junction, Coraopolis, last night. Leon Phillips, train conductor, of 1520 Fourth avenue, Coraopolis, walking through the car, discovered the body.

The body, clad in a school uniform, was taken to the county morgue, where an autopsy performed by Dr. T. R. Hembold, coroner's physician, disclosed that the boy had been frozen to death.

The description of Andrew, broadcast since his escape Friday with another boy, tallied with the appearance of the body, morgue attaches said. He was seen in McKees Rocks early Saturday, when his companion was caught, and is believed to have hidden in the car to avoid recapture.

The boy formerly resided in Windber, and was committed to the institution for a minor offense. Morgue attaches today were trying to locate his mother, a widow, living in Johnstown.

NEW HOME LIKE DREAM TO OLD WANDERER

A home for one who was homeless; a job for one who was penniless; above all, friends for one who was lonely.

Standing among a thousand fragrant flowers in a greenhouse at Mars, Pa., today Ed Morrison seemed bewildered by the transformation which overnight wrought these changes in his fortunes.

"It seems too wonderful to be true," mumbled the stooped and gray wanderer as he puttered around the conservatory of his benefactor, a namesake, Alex Morrison, Mars florist. "Too wonderful to be true," the old man quavered, over and over.

Nevertheless, it is true. This same Ed Morrison, forced by hunger to steal a loaf of bread four days ago, arrested and haled before a magistrate who mercifully released him, has found his haven of shelter at last.

FLORIST OFFERS HOME

When Morrison was released from Frankstown Avenue Police Station last Friday after his story of being jobless and penniless had touched the heart of Magistrate William Soost, he shambled out into the street and was lost to the world.

He was lost to the world, but not forgotten by it. The Mars florist read in the Sun-Telegraph of Morrison's plight, and was touched by the tragedy of the old man's life. He wrote to the Sun-Telegraph, offering Morrison a job and a home. But Morrison could not be found to be informed of his good fortune; fate seemed breaking against the aged wanderer.

Then George Cronauer, 33, of 7263 Hamilton avenue, returning from church Sunday morning, saw a stopped figure walking along the street, and in a flash recognized the aged man from a picture published in the Sun-Telegraph as Morrison. Cronauer accosted him, bought him a hearty meal and then gave him car fare to Mars. Morrison went and was received into the family circle of his namesake.

WANDERER NO MORE

So, today the wanderer is a wanderer no more. He putters around the florist's greenhouse and as he turns to the right, he is greeted by the fragrance of the beautiful rose; as he turns to the left, by the fragrance of the myriad other flowers he learned to love in his years as a gardener.

Is he happy? Is he grateful? He is both; but his joy and his gratitude seem too great for any verbal expression of emotion. Yet on his features seems written the sentiment which Frank L. Stanton, the poet of Georgia, put into verse:

This old world we're a'livin' in
Is mighty hard to beat.
There's a thorn with every rose;
But ain't the roses sweet?

OLD-TIME 'AMAZONS' STAR IN 'BLACK CROOK' REVIVAL

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP.)—A sophisticated New York audience, in dinner coats and ermine evening wraps, traveled to Hoboken last night to see "The Black Crook."

Sixty-two years ago last October, a somewhat less sophisticated New York audience traveled by carriage and horse-car to Niblo Gardens, on lower Broadway, to see the world premiere of the same show.

It was the first time that audiences 62 years ago ever had seen any ladies in tights. The same might also be said of a large percentage of last night's audience. Hardly within the memory of man has a New York audience seen so well-clothed a chorus as Christopher Morley, essayist and story writer, gave them last night in "The Black Crook."

Under the direction of Harry Wagstaff Gribble, Oxford graduate, former banker and actor, the revival was as nearly authentic in all details as any revival of a piece as old as "The Black Crook" could be, but it was a lot more than a mere revival.

There were stage effects, the like of which have not been seen around here since the days of melodrama at the old Hippodrome—devils leaping on to rocks, a box that exploded like a flashlight when the lid was lifted, lots of red fire and smoke, dragons breathing flames and a parade of amazons.

Girl Missing in Quest For Warmer Climate

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 12.—Tired of cold and changeable weather, Georgette Mejean, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mejean, of North Charlerol, and a student in Charlerol High School, told her school chums she was going to seek a warmer climate. She has been missing since Thursday. She had no money, is about five feet tall, wore a black coat and hat and checkered sweater and galoshes.

NOBILE JUSTIFIES FLIGHT

SCIENTIFIC ACHIEVEMENTS BEFORE DISASTER CITED

In a series of four exclusive articles, written for the Hearst newspapers, of which this is the third, Gen. Umberto Nobile, commander of the ill-fated dirigible Italia, tells for the first time his own story of the Italia disaster and the scientific achievements of the expedition as he sees them.

A board of inquiry in Italy recently completed its trial of Gen. Nobile and adjudged him responsible for the loss of the Italia and part of her crew in the Arctic. During the trial none of the testimony for or against him was made public. In effect these articles constitute Nobile's defense.

In the two previous articles Gen. Nobile told of the Italia disaster itself. In the accompanying instalment he deals with the scientific phases of the expedition.

ROME, March 12.—The general public is ignorant of all the scientific preparations for the flight by the Italia to the North Pole, and even unaware that I selected the itinerary of the voyage so as to be able to accomplish an interesting geographical exploration and a series of scientific researches of the utmost importance.

Therefore, I think it worth while to give a brief account of the first two flights undertaken by the Italia in the polar regions.

The first of these flights took place on May 11.

Our program was to steer toward the east in order to explore Nicholas II Island, but as soon as we neared North Cape the weather became so bad that we were obliged to return. Therefore the flight was interrupted after eight hours.

The second flight lasted from May 15 to 18, a voyage of 68 hours. We traversed the unexplored zone between Spitzbergen and the Francis Joseph Archipelago, and the large unexplored region of Nicholas II Island.

Fly 4,000 Kilometers

In returning, we crossed the sea from the north coast of Nova Zembla to the land northeast of Spitzbergen. In all, 4,000 kilometers were passed over. (One kilometer is .621, or nearly two-thirds of a mile). Out of these were 1,849 kilometers over regions on which the eyes of man never had rested before.

The geographical results were:

Ten thousand square kilometers were explored in the previously unknown region between Spitzbergen and Francis Joseph Land, showing the fabled Gilles Land did not exist.

Four thousand square kilometers were flown over in the hitherto unexplored region between the islands east of Francis Joseph Land and the route of "St. Anne;" that is, the region between the eighty-first and eighty-second degrees of north latitude and the seventy-seventh and seventieth degrees of longitude east of Greenland.

A good 730 kilometers were passed over in the unexplored zone of Nicholas II Land, reaching about the ninety-second degree of longitude east of Greenwich. In this region we cruised over 20,000 square kilometers of area, but saw no land.

Another 4,500 kilometers were explored in the zone to the northeast of Nova Zembla.

See New Areas

We inspected 9,000 square kilometers of land of the northeast, flying over the interior of this hitherto unexplored section.

A total of about 48,000 square kilometers of previously unknown area was explored. No sensational discovery of new lands was made, although signs of land were perceived near the eightieth degree of latitude north and 84 minutes 30 seconds of longitude East.

On the other hand, this exploration permitted a delimitation of the extreme western limits to which the above-mentioned land may extend, a delimitation which, together with the probable existence of land in the point before indicated, gave me the idea that Nicholas Land very probably consisted of a number of islands.

The scientific work on board was entrusted to Profs. Pontremoli and Malmgren.

Malmgren collected meterological data and made observations on the state of the ice, while Pontremoli studied the horizontal component of the terrestial magnetic field through a Bidlingmeyer double compass, measured the electric conductivity of the atmosphere, and afterward made 50 measurements of penetrating radiation and 31 measurements of atmospheric radio-activity.

Planned Exploration

But besides this flight the minimum program of exploration arranged by me and announced beforehand considered a flight from Kings Bay to the northern coast of Greenland, and thence to the North Pole over the unexplored region between the route of Peary and that of the Norge.

On the return from the Pole to Spitzbergen, the flight would have taken place between the twenty-fifth and the thirtieth meridian of east longitude, with the object of exploring the zones lying to the right of the route of the NORGE.

Such an itinerary extended for the greater part over unexplored zones.

The program of scientic measurements comprised, besides the metcorological and magnetic observations and the study of atmospheric electricity and of penetrating radiation, a landing on the ice at the pole as well.

Among the scientific researches to be carried out at the Pole were studies of oceanographic character; that is to say, measurement of the depth of the sea, determination of the temperature and the taking of samples of sea water at various depths.

Then magnetic measurements were to be made by means of a dip-circle inclinometer kindly loaned to me by the Carnegie Institution of Washington and especially adapted to a measurement executed rapidly in the special conditions in which our studies would have to be made.

Takes Scientists

It was to carry out this research program that on the morning of May 23 the ITALIA started from Kings Bay.

Because of the importance of this scientific scheme, I decided that all three scientists, Behounek, Pontremoli and Malmgren, my collaborators, should take part in the flight. Each had his special task.

The preparations for descending on the ice had required long study and numerous experiments. In the end I adopted a system which when put into practice proved satisfactory. Landing on the ice was a delicate maneuver calling for much prudence and favorable atmospheric conditions.

I had decided that once the landing was effected, I should first descend personally to ascertain the possibility of carrying out our determinations with safety, and then return on board and send down Pontremoli and Malmgren.

I had calculated that we should remain down on the ice for three hours.

It was a pity that the very worst kind of weather at the Pole prevented me from making the ice landing planned for there, because without doubt, besides constituting a brilliant technical success, it would have made possible studies extremely valuable to science.

I had taken into consideration the danger of our being marooned on the ice pack by some accident to the ship in landing.

Packed Supplies

In consequence, I took special precautions to assure the men having with them sufficient food, clothing and supplies to subsist on the ice for some days with reasonable comfort, until the ship could be brought back to rescue them.

With the help of Pontremoli I put these supplies into two waterproof sacks.

One of these two sacks was placed inside the keel, and the other in the ceiling of the wireless cabin.

This second sack fell with us in the catastrophe. It was the one containing the tent, one of the two fur-lined sacks, and the pistols. All were precious things, without which we could not have lived nearly so long as we did on that terrible pack.

6 Hold Up Driver, Steal $8 and Cab

Six men, two of them armed, held up Edward Senda, cab driver, of 2407 Sarah street, last night and robbed him of $8 and his cab in Stanton avenue near Carnegie avenue, after directing him to take them there. The men, Senda told police, hired his cab at Forty-third and Butler streets and when they reached their destination, two leveled revolvers at him and ordered him out.

Roomer Found Dead, Victim of Gas Fumes

Frank Hansler, 55, of 606 North Canal street, was found dead in bed last night, a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning. Fellow roomers, who had not seen him since Saturday, broke in the door and found the body, with a gas stove burning nearby, police said.

RETRIAL PLEAS HEARD IN RUM CASES

After being on the bench all day Monday hearing arguments in support of motions for new trials of defendants convicted in the North Side and South Side rum conspiracy cases and the Union Fishing Club suit, Federal Judge Nelson McVicar left the bench without indicating when decisions would be rendered. Counsel were told to have the defendants in court for sentence Friday, unless notified to the contrary.

Attorney George Wasser in arguing new trials for Fred Stratman and Oscar Reister, of the Twenty-third Ward; Daniel McLaughlin, of the Twenty-first Ward, and Thomas Johnson, Thomas Wills and David J. Adams contended they had been placed in double jeopardy, having been in the first North Side indictments, in which 44 defendants were acquitted by direction of the court.

Attorney S. V. Ablo made arguments in behalf of Santo and Jack LaQuatra, of the Twenty-first Ward; Attorney W. W. Stoner spoke in behalf of Joseph P. Hilldorfer, former president; John Coney, assistant steward, and Frank C. Peters, waiter, of the Union Fishing Club, and Attorney C. B. Prichard for Charles W. Bott, William Allshouse and V. Prazekalasa. Attorney A. M. Oliver represented Martin J. Grady, convicted for income tax evasion.

Mickey Meyers, Gus Meyers, Joe Meyers and Sam Meyers, brothers, and James Swift, convicted in the South Side rum conspiracy, were represented by Attorneys Albert Schmidt and Charles Lane.

The government was represented by Assistant United States Attorney Joseph A. Richardson.

"Whoopee" Comes To Hoovers at White House

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(INS.)—"Whoopee" came to the White House today.

"Whoopee" is a salt-and-pepper Schnauzer puppy, and was sent to the Hoovers as a gift from Frances Lillian Gilman, of Chicago.

The pup's registered name, according to the tag accompanying him, is "Drule Von Daden-Daden." That is too much name for such a little dog, so "Whoopee" was substituted.

3 YOUTHS TAKEN IN CAR THEFTS

Three young men, said to be members of prominent families, were arrested early today by Motorcycle Detective Edward O'Rourke, who accused them of having stolen automobiles valued at $25,000 to $30,000.

The prisoners are Murray Service, Jr., 21, of 556 Forest avenue, Bellevue; Robert Stoup, 23, of 402 Whitney avenue, Wilkinsburg, and Anthony Balcer, of 1003 Western avenue.

An ingenious method of selling the cars as legitimate property was revealed by O'Rourke. The youths, he said, would first buy a cheap second-hand car to obtain a certificate of title, and after stealing an expensive auto, would transfer the serial numbers and sell the stolen machine, transferring it with the legitimate title. Fourteen cars are believed to have been disposed of in this manner, O'Rourke declared.

BEN AVON RIVER ROAD ROUTE ACCEPTED

The board of County Commissioners today agreed to accept the recommendation of county engineers regarding the route of the proposed Ohio River boulevard through Ben Avon Borough.

Borough officials, at a meeting with the commissioners last week, asked that the highway pass over a route suggested by borough engineers, differing from the one suggested by county road experts.

Borough officials want the boulevard to pass along the extreme southern edge of the borough, overlooking the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks and the Ohio River. For this route it would be necessary to build a bridge.

Director Norman F. Brown, of the county department of public works, recommended a route that followed Brighton road for a short distance and then veers off through unopened property.

Director Brown said the county proposed route would be the cheapest and most practical. He said the route along the river front would require many retaining walls and other extra costs.

Elevator Man Held In Fatal Accident

Charles Maier, elevator operator, of 91 McLain street, was held for manslaughter by a coroner's jury today in the death of William Luft, 28, of 619 Farragut street, in an elevator accident in the Universal Film Exchange, 1018 Forbes street, February 27.

Maier admitted on the witness stand that he was intoxicated and was not in the elevator when Luft was crushed between a floor and the elevator.

THERE are certain times when nearly every woman should accept the aid and comfort of Bayer Aspirin. Not just for the unexpected headache these tablets relieve so readily. Not just for colds which they check so quickly. Bayer Aspirin brings ease on the days too many women still submit to pain that is not natural, not necessary. This relief is perfectly harmless, as in all uses. Remember this! Look for Bayer on the box and follow proven directions found inside.

We had dinner with a prize fighter

We were surprised to watch him eat jelly

WE HAD dinner recently with a famous prize fighter—one of the big fellows noted the world over for his perfect fighting physique. We were interested in seeing what he would eat. We heard him tell one of the waiters to bring a glass of jelly. Before the meal was over, the great fighter cleaned up more than half of that glass of jelly.

That was a practical eye-opener as to the energy value of sugar. The active body of this man craved and needed sweets.

Normal children also are athletes and their energy-consuming bodies hunger for and need sweets. All people whose daily work is of an exhausting, physical nature hunger for and need sweets.

And all others need sugar as an appetizing agent. Sugar develops the flavor of health-giving cereals, of fruits and of vegetables, of milk in milk shakes, and of eggs in egg-nog.

Every grocery store carries pure jams, jellies and preserves, and enough canned fruits and vegetables to bring health to every table. The Sugar Institute.

SLOT MACHINE OWNER GETS $200 FINE

Three slot machine cases which grew out of the county grand jury probe were disposed of yesterday in Criminal Court. Mike DeRosa, Jr., accused of maintaining gambling devices in three East End locations, pleaded no defense. He was fined $200 and paroled for one year by Judge James B. Drew.

Mack, Dale and Lawrence McCarthy, brothers, charged with the same offense in the North Side district, changed their pleas to no defense after they had gone on trial before Judge Elder W. Marshall. They will be sentenced later. Lloyd McCrory, indicted with the McCarthy brothers, was acquitted on binding instructions from the court.

Emil Steiner was found guilty of maintaining gambling devices by a jury, which was out for less than a half-hour. He was tried before Judge Marshall and will be sentenced later.

Meetings to Study Metropolitan Draft

Recommendations made by the Civic Club of Allegheny County to the Metropolitan Plan Commission will be supplemented by a series of meetings to consider the draft for the proposed consolidated City of Pittsburgh presented to Gov. John S. Fisher, it was announced today. A joint conference of the state and federal affairs committee and the Metropolitan Plan sub-committee on municipal affairs will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Civic Club rooms, 604 Keenan Building.

Clark Seeks More Bertillon Workers

Safety Director James M. Clark has asked Council to authorize the employment of five additional persons in the Bertillon division to prepare data for submission to judges in Criminal Court when a defendant is suspected of having a previous record. Clark has presented an ordinance authorizing the employment of three Bertillon operators at $2,040 a year each, two steographers at an undetermined salary, and three additional clerks in the automobile division of the safety department, at $1,800 a year each.

Clark Would Spend $27,500 for Autos

Safety Director James M. Clark has forwarded to Council an ordinance authorizing the purchase of motor equipment for the police bureau at a cost not to exceed $27,500. The list includes an automobile for the superintendent of police, one for the assistant superintendent, another for the police and fire surgeon, four for the automobile division, one for the detective division and five for precinct police stations. The director also wants to buy two new police patrols.

Firemen Deny Aiding Bill Limiting Terms

The Firemen's Protective Association, through its president, John Heinz, has submitted to Council a letter disclaiming responsibility for the introduction at Harrisburg of a bill limiting the terms of the mayor and members of Council to two consecutive terms. The bill was presented by Representative Joseph M. Shilling, of Erie.

"Don't COUGH Your Energy Away"

Exhausted . . . . Because of a Cough

A STUBBORN cough can wrack your whole body—sap vitality. Each spasm not only irritates the delicate membranes of your throat but puts a severe strain upon your chest, stomach and other vital organs.

Your health demands that coughs be checked. They feed upon your strength—lower your resistance—expose you to more serious infections.

At the first sign of cough or throat irritation, take PERTUSSIN. It helps Nature free the air passages of germ-laden mucus, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough. PERTUSSIN has been prescribed more often to coughs than any other advertised remedy.

PERTUSSIN is safe even for small children and convalescents—a good remedy for coughs that "hang on". It is free from dope, does not upset the stomach and can be taken as often as necessary. At all druggists

A Secret This Boy Knows

I am healthy and happy because mother gives me ACIDINE every night. The doctor told her it would surely stop colds and sick stomachs. Doctor said it was a new discovery and would do the trick. It surely has. I haven't had a bit of indigestion or any colds, and it is dandy to take. Tastes just like peppermint candy.

I heard the doctor telling mother and dad it would do them good too, especially if they had over-indulged—whatever that is. He said it would kill poisonous acids and prevent rheumatism and sick headaches, which we kids hear something about occasionally.

Our druggist said even if you drink six ice cream sodas, ACIDINE will save you. Have your mother keep it handy always, too. It is health insurance for the whole family.

Your druggist has it or write Health Laboratories, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.

RIGHT TO BUILD WON BY BELL

The zoning board of adjustments today granted the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania the right to construct a 23-story addition to its central office at Seventh avenue and William Penn way. The addition, to cost $1,500,000, will extend to Strawberry alley. The telephone company had taken an appeal from an adverse decision by the superintendent of the bureau of building inspection.

Two other appeals were granted. The South Highland Apartments, Inc., was permitted to convert the building at 5331 Howe street into a rooming house. George N. Follows, of 2334 Tilbury street, was permitted to enclose the front entrance of a one-family dwelling.

Truck Owners Fight State Fee Increase

The propsed increase in automobile truck license fees and the tax on gasoline were protested at the annual meeting of the Team and Motor Truck Owners' Association, held last night in the William Penn Hotel. The association elected these officers: president, Daniel D. Kirby; vice presidents, Hugh Walsh and James Simpson and secretary-treasurer, W. J. Moore.

M'CRACKEN, CHAMBERLIN AIR GUESTS OF PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh is host today to two noted figures in the world of aviation.

Mr. MacCracken is here to speak tonight at the official dinner of the Aircraft Show committee. Chamberlin is here to visit the show. While Mr. MacCracken was having breakfast at the William Penn Hotel with George R. Hann, president; Norman Allderdice and Richard W. Robbins, vice presidents, and C. Bedell Monro, secretary, Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, and Raymond A. Tucker, chairman of the aircraft show committee, Chamberlin was at the Duquesne Club where C. J. Niclas had invited several friends to meet the noted flier.

Mr. MacCracken, after breakfast, went to look over the site of Pittsburgh's new airport on Lebanon road, Mifflin Township. At luncheon he was the guest of Mr. Hann and Mr. Robbins at the Pittsburgh Club, where local leaders in aviation were invited to meet him. He also inspected the beacon on the Grant Building.

Mr. MacCracken will retain his present post as head of commercial aviation for the government "for the present at least."

Publishing Company Seeks to Dissolve

A petition for dissolution of the Neeb-Hirsch Publishing Company, 207 Boulevard of the Allies, has been filed in Common Pleas Court and April 5 set for a hearing. The petition was filed by I. E. Hirsch, vice president, and George Schlimpen, secretary. Formed in 1901, the company has no debts or liabilities, the officers say.

Child Hurt by Auto, Police Seek Driver

BRIDGEWATER, Pa., March 12.—Billie Brown, 6, is in the Rochester Hospital with a broken shoulder blade and other injuries while police search for the automobile driver who ran him down. Billie told Chief of Police Dan M. Baker a young fellow hit him, then took him to Rochester, where an older man washed his face and brought him back home.

"Now run and tell your mother you fell and hurt yourself," the driver admonished Billie.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes, such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity for the accumulation of savings which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income, as distinguished from earnings on capital, and, since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation of our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

HARRY LANGDON ON AIR; EVELYN HOEY TO SING

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

AN "air pirate" has made his appearance in Jeannette, Pa., and radio fans have organized a vigilante committee to annihilate him.

That is the essence of a letter sent the Sun-Telegraph by M. Lakin, an enthusiastic fan of 121 North Third street. Lakin implores the aid of the Sun-Telegraph in putting to rest an amateur who insists on operating an antiquated "spark set" during broadcast hours. The nuisance is caused on a waveband of 1,350 to 1,450 kilocycles.

This department will be glad to lend its co-operation in overcoming this nuisance. Jeannette fans should write their letters of complaint to the radio department, Pittsburgh, Pa. These will be forwarded to Washington and an investigation will be made.

If the nuisance abates after the appearance of this article, which is often the case, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph radio department will be glad to have letters of comment.

MOTHER, WIDOW CLAIM ESTATE OF ACTOR

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP.)—A contest over the right to administer the $25,000 estate of Wallace Eddinger, noted actor, became known today with the filing of letters of administration by both his mother and his widow, Margaret Lawrence, the actress.

Eddinger died in Pittsburgh last January and left no will.

In the usual course, the widow would have the right to administer the estate, but Miss Lawrence had filed divorce proceedings just before her husband's death. For this reason the mother, Mrs. Lawrence Eddinger, charges Miss Lawrence forfeited her right.

"DRY" LAWS FUTILE, SAYS EX-SENATOR WADSWORTH

REAL EFFORT TO SOLVE PROBLEM "IMPERATIVE"

"Merely to state the purpose and intent of the Eighteenth Amendment, supplemented by the Volstead act, is to demonstrate its utter futility."

This was the indictment levelled at existing prohibition laws by former United States Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York, who with Mrs. Wadsworth arrived on the Pacific Coast a few days ago from Honolulu. Mr. and Mrs. Wadsworth are now en route to New York by train. The former Senator continued:

"It is imperative that a determined and persistent effort be made by the patriotic people of the country to solve the prohibition problems and I am glad Mr. Hearst has made his splendid offer for the best solution. That offer, as I understand it, emphasizes that temperance is what we all want.

"The offer will lead people to think more deeply on the fundamental issues, and unquestionably will bring out valuable suggestions. Present conditions are intolerable and there is no hope that they will grow better under existing laws.

"The Eighteenth amendment can have but one meaning—that the 120,000,000 people in the United States shall be total abstainers, under legal compulsion.

"Every observant person is well aware of what is going on in every city, village and hamlet in the United States, not excepting the Hawaiian Islands and our other territorial possessions.

"It is a spectacle of wholesale violation, indulged in by people in every walk of life. Corruption is widespread and winked at. Hypocrisy is the prevailing habit of mind and the Constitution is sinking into disrespect.

"We would better cure this situation ere the disease becomes incurable. We would do well to study the very interesting and successful systems now in operation in the Canadian provinces, Sweden, Norway, Great Britian, Holland and other countries."

Other expressions concerning the drawbacks of prohibition, and anent the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest to find a temperance substitute for it, include:

Barney Oldfield

"The William Randolph Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest should prove a means of eliminating intolerance and bring about unbiased criticism and constructive thought.

"The contest will never stop at just the finding of a plan. The people will find that plan and then will never cease in their efforts until it is adopted. The contest has awakened us all to the fact that we have not used our best efforts in finding a solution for America's greatest problem—that of prohibition."

7 RULES FOR $25,000 TEMPERANCE CONTEST

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

MOVE BEGUN TO EXTEND INSURANCE 'GRACE DAYS'

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 12.—The late Haley Fiske would often call life insurance companies, his own in particular, "the great mother."

It is an apt designation for corporations that comfort, care for and cherish those whom death leaves helpless.

It appears, however, that some companies have been over-careful of the dollar, at technical rightness, but moral injustice to policy holders. This is the reason that two bills were introduced in the State Senate today which promise to begin a corrective that should become national in scope. For back of them, it is said by proponents, can be arrayed a mass of facts which would stir public resentment to a high degree of hostility.

DAYS OF GRACE EXTENDED

These measures are one by Senator George W. Rochester, and one by Senator Edwin A. Mueller.

Briefly, Senator Rochester's bill extends the days of grace for payment of premiums in ratio to the length of time in which premiums have been paid. At present 30 days of grace are allowed on premium payments. But the bill changes that to this scale:

For policies on which payments have been made for five years or less, 60 days of grace.

Policies on which premiums have been paid for over five but less than 10 years, 90 days of grace.

Policies on which premiums have been paid for more than 10 years, but less than 15, 120 days of grace.

Policies on which premiums have been paid for more than 15 years, days of grace are to be six months.

In case the insured dies within the days of grace, the amount of premium then unpaid shall be deducted from the amount payable.

CASES CITED

A section makes all agreements between the company and policy holder waiving these provisions void, and all policy provisions contrary to the bill void and a minimum fine of $1,000 for violations of these acts. Power to revoke such companies' licenses as may disobey the bill will rest in the insurance commissioner.

Senator Mueller's measure changes the existing statutes to meet the provisions of the Rochester bill.

Advocates of these bills say they have a great number of cases where the insured through temporary shyness of money, illness, lack of memory and causes which did not morally make them subject to enforcement of forfeiture, failed to pay premiums in the required time now in effect, and have suffered vital losses to their families. These advocates also argue that the changes in grace days will not be burdensome to life insurance companies of high reputation and feel that opposition will not come from companies which desire to conduct their business as a business intimately interwoven with the safety and weal of all the people.

ILL TWO YEARS; LOST 27 POUNDS

Carnegie Lady's Health Troubles Relieved by New Medicine, Ten Herbs.

Ten Herbs, the celebrated new natural medicine, has ended the health troubles of thousands of men and women of this section by relieving disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, according to reports received at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, where this tremendously successful preparation is being introduced.

MRS. PETER ALLSHOUSE

"Ten Herbs has helped me so much that it is easy for me to understand why everybody who takes this medicine is so glad to endorse it," said Mrs. Peter Allshouse, 534 Washington Avenue Extension, Carnegie, Pa. (near Pittsburgh.) "I had been ill for two years and lost 27 pounds. Twice I was in a hospital, where I spent several weeks each time. I was almost a nervous wreck, and I think my stomach was the cause of it all. Food soured and fermented, and I had gastritis very badly. About five minutes after eating I would become so nauseated that I would vomit. Other organs seemed to be in sympathy with my stomach. I was constipated, and my liver was inactive. I had bilious attacks and dizzy spells. My kidneys seemed to be weak, causing me to have pains across my back. I was nervous, and did not sleep well. I was so weak and rundown that I often had to lie down after doing a little housework.

"Ten Herbs changed all these conditions. I have a fine appetite and am rid of gastritis, sour stomach and fermentation. I no longer get nauseated and vomit. My bowels are regular, and my liver and kidneys seem to be in splendid condition. I have been relieved of biliousness, dizzy spells and pains in my back. My nerves are a hundred per cent better, and I sleep soundly. I am gaining in strength and weight, and have more energy and ambition. It is easy to see why I am glad to endorse Ten Herbs."

Ten Herbs is being introduced at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, and is sold at all May's Drug Stores.

C. N. Boyd Praises Foster Memorial

Advantages of the Stephen C. Foster memorial building to be erected on the Cathedral of Learning quadrangle are pointed out by Charles N. Boyd, director of the Pittsburgh Musical Institute, in a letter indorsing the project. The memorial is intended not only to honor Foster, but also to serve as a musical center for the entire Pittsburgh district. One of its principal interior features will be an auditorium seating about 1,000. One of the most important benefits of the memorial, according to Boyd, will be its inspiration to local musical talent.

GRATEFUL FOR RESTORED HEALTH

Mr. Franic Sypula, of Parnassus, Pa., a newcomer to America from the shores of Sunny Italy, had a hard fight to retain his health, here in this country, under new conditions of living. He caught catarrh while working in the mines. For a long time it grew worse and worse until it looked like he was running into consumption. At last he found a remedy which promptly relieved him.

He writes in sincere gratitude:

"I was in despair with catarrh. I lost one or two days' work a week, because I could not get my breath, when the weather changed, or the air was heavy. The American food did not seem to have any taste, and no matter what I ate my stomach would swell up with gas. I had to take different kinds of physics every night to get my bowels to move. No ordinary American medicine seemed of any help to me. But when my buddy told me how World's Tonic is made, from herbs and plants brought from different parts of the world, I realized that this new remedy could help an Italian like myself, as well as Americans, in a way no ordinary medicine had done.

"After using three bottles of World's Tonic the sickening discharges in my nose healed. I no longer swallowed into my stomach the poisonous catarrhal droppings. My appetite got better, my blood cleared up. Spaghetti tasted good again, like it used to taste back in Italy. I am a well man now and owe my health to World's Tonic. Of course, I am grateful to the scientific men who have given this famous remedy to humanity. And I am glad to be one of the many to write down my experience and make a record of my case."

World's Tonic is on sale at all Dow stores (formerly McGillicuddy) and other modern drug stores. 46-63

Weather Conditions.

There was little change in the pressure distribution during the last 24 hours. The high still covers the Atlantic Coast states, and the western disturbance is still centered over Eastern Colorado, lowest barometer, 29.24 inches, at Pueblo. The disturbance is causing cloudy weather over most of the interior and light to moderately heavy rains over all the Plains states and snow over the Rocky Mountain states.

The temperature changes from the Plains states eastward were generally towards warmer, but in North Dakota and northward over Manitoba and Saskatchewan there was a change to colder.

River Conditions.

There was a slight rise at the headwaters, but the lower rivers continued to fall. Stage at Pittsburgh is 13.4 feet; Dam No. 2, 4.6; Dam No. 8, 10.5; Dam No. 9, 11.2, and Dam No. 12, 9.8. The rivers will continue to fall slowly. The dams are down.

Play Critics See Comedy and Mystery on Both Stage and Screen

"COQUETTE" WRINGS HEARTS BY ART OF HELEN HAYES IN DRAMA OF LIFE

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

SOUTHERN chivalry and flapper ethics provide the tragic ingredients of the drama in which Helen Hayes showed a sympathetic audience at the Alvin that she is an actress who can rise from daintiest comedy to highest emotional stress. "Coquette" is the title of the play by George Abbott and Ann Preston Bridgers, and that title tells almost everything. It doesn't tell how consummately the thing is put together, and how poignantly it is unfolded.

With a murder and a suicide to punctuate the climaxes of the plot, it might be inferred that here is a piece of somber melodrama to rack and rend the susceptible. But it isn't anything of the sort. It is a glimpse of a girl's pitiful folly—set off against old-fashioned virtues—the folly painted with enough understanding to make us pity, the virtues depicted with enough red blood to save them from contempt.

Helen Hayes as Norma Besant radiates charm and grace, vivacity and youth. Then comes the horror of revelation and her lover's death. And then she is transformed into the figure of wild grief and remorse, proud shame and atonement. It is a portrait of a living person, actual in every lineament and pore—irresistible in her wiles and lies, and compelling compassion in her despair.

Helen Hayes does this—one is almost inclined to discount the share the authors have had in the business.

IT'S A GOOD PLAY

Yet the structure and substance of the drama force the recognition that it's a good play. It is built up logically from materials that are mined in human nature's deepest lode. The characters are endowed with the veracity of common clay; they are not impossible mannikins and statuettes.

There are moments when the dramatic construction wobbles—as in the first act when the father departs rather too readily to visit the imaginary patient invented by his daughter, leaving her with her lover, and again in the third act when the telephone message calling the other lover home seems too opportune to be plausible. It also does not appear quite credible that the glib prevaricator and hypocrite of the first act should choose the cold muzzle of a pistol in the end rather than work a little demure deception on the witness stand. But these are very minor bits of improbability in a play that is well knit, and filled with true tragedy as the outgrowth of life's bitter ironies.

In short, here's a play that rings true, interpreted by a cast that gives it life.

HELEN HAYES IS GREAT

At the top of the list stands Helen Hayes, with nothing meretricious or sensational about her acting. She is able to show deeps of emotion under a surface of seeming calm, which is the utmost reach of histrionic art. Even her wild hysterics when she knows her lover has been killed by her father are the natural emanation of her shallow self, which only the terror of death can purify and purge. Thus her own death at the close is made plausible by the actress—and the dramatists have builded better than they knew. Helen Hayes is a great emotional actress.

Around her is a cast of rare excellence. It is the same that presented the drama on Broadway, except Bryant Sells, whose role of the lover was played by Elliot Cabot, and two of the minor characters are also different. It must not be thought, however, that the cast has been weakened by these changes—the play could hardly be done better.

Three of the people approached the star in the rich human quality of their portrayals. Una Merkel as Betty Lee is delicious as the simpleton who buds forth. Andrew Lawlor, Jr., as Norma's young brother gives a capital picture of the high-school hobbledehoy. And G. Albert Smith, the faithful lover, furnishes the supremely touching scene of the drama when he offers to marry his disgraced sweetheart. Charles Waldron as the father, Frederick Burton as the lawyer, and Mr. Sells as the lover struck no false notes at any time.

In fact, aside from a few cold-blooded technical points, this play leaves the critic nothing to criticise. It is the mathematics of psychology—what happens when flapper morality crashes with old-fashioned ideals.

PENN SCREEN DETECTIVE CLEVER

"The Canary Murder Case," photoplay in the Penn, shows how to solve a murder mystery by the process of deduction, plus the aid of a little coincidence here and there. Its central character is Philo Vance, the celebrated scientific detective who has entertained in fiction. William Powell plays Mr. Vance, and makes a good job of it. Those who must have their romance on the silver sheet are out of luck in this one, since crime solution through novel methods, rather than heart affairs, holds the screen, although Jimmy Hall and Jean Arthur, do offer some love interest. Louise Brooks plays well a hardened gold-digger, "the Canary." There is an element of comedy in the picture. It is a talkie.

On the stage Teddy Joyce and the Penn stage band are featured in the little revue, "Cooling Off." Teddy introduces a novelty by dancing on a dark stage, where his presence is denoted by luminous spats, necktie and baton in movement. George Givot, comic; Al Pickard and a trained seal; the Wallace Sisters, dancers; Helen Anderson, singer, and the Gamby-Hale dancing ensemble are others in the bill.

NIXON SHOW, "DRACULA," THRILLS

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

The Nixon this week presents "Dracula." It is an emotional nightmare in three prolonged shudders and four scenes. It is presented well by players who display keen talent. And just as its central character, Count Dracula, is a king of vampires, so the play itself is a king among mystery dramatics.

As for this Count—what a nice big terror he turns out to be. He's an "undead thing," a sort of were-wolf, who, in human form, spreads horror from midnight until dawn. Five hundred years ago he is supposed to have died in Transylvania. But the demise didn't take. And so in the play you meet him in England, where he sustains his fantastic vampire existence by drinking the blood of young women.

The plot briefly concerns the solving of the mysterious death of one girl, the mysterious illness of another and the writing of finis across the fiendish career of Count Dracula.

SUSPENSE RETAINED

The action takes place in the English sanitorium of one Dr. Seward—in his library, his daughter's boudoir and in the vault under the building. Throughout, there is an air of foreboding and suspense, which, incidentally, isn't relieved much between acts by the sight of a woman in nurse's garb in the rear of the theater.

Quite a bit of the weird atmosphere is due to a frequent and dismal baying of dogs. The romantic hero—for there is one—says dogs bark that way in Russia when wolves are around. Thus for the first time, the werewolf idea and the supernatural is introduced. And this element remains until a final chant: "Dust to Dust."

CAST IS CAPABLE

All of the players do whatever they have to do well. Raymond Huntley gives a Dracula of fiendish countenance and sepulchral voice. Bernard Jukes makes a striking study of a fly-eating madman. Edward Van Sloan, as the scientist who solves the mystery, and the heroine, Dorothy Peterson, are highly capable. Carl Reed, as a servant, manages some comedy. Other players include Theda Fyler, Terrence Neill and Henry Warwick.

Yes, they've made a great mystery play out of Bram Stoker's 30-year-old novel. It is one of those mystery plays that push right over the footlights and engulf the audience. It allows no spectators—all become part of the drama. So pronounced is the atmosphere it creates that even with the applause and blaze of lights that comes with the final curtain, you suspect some demon is lurking beneath your chair. Hesitantly your hand reaches down. Ah, comes a sigh of relief . . . Never, as long as you can remember, was the feel of your old familiar hat so reassuring.

Jessel, Stage Acts in Harris

Two clever juveniles, who mix dance and acrobatics, are prominent in the Harris stage bill for the first three days of the week. The screen feature is "Lucky Boy," starring George Jessel. The juveniles, known as the Hudson Wonders, are girls who whirl and dance through the air and over the stage in a keen manner. Harry Cooper, comedian, assisted by another fellow and three feminine dancers, mix comedy and steps. Harry also does a tipsy characterization. Other acts on the bill include a song offering by the Three Rolling Romeos and Vacca, an entertainer who makes pictures out of colored rags.

George Jessel.

In "Lucky Boy," Jessel's "poppa" wants him to be a mender of watches. But George isn't keen on the jewelry business—he wants to be a stage actor. Finally the young hero finds fame on the stage. He also finds love—and weds a society girl. The picture has some talking sequences. In addition, Mr. Jessel sings about five songs, the featured one being "My Mother's Eyes."

"Weary River" Kept in Grand

"SKIDDING," IS LOTS OF FUN, AS EXCELLENTLY PLAYED IN PITT THEATER

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

JUST the merriest little comedy of American life that has come to town in many many moons is "Skidding," which kept an audience in the Pitt laughing constantly from beginning to end of its three delicious acts in the Pitt last night. Of the same genre as "The First Year," it is even more laughable in its picture of married life and of young love and truthful portrayal of adolescent romance, compared to the fidelity and sacrifice represented in domestic life of the elders whose affairs are so intimately and delightfully mixed with young people we know so well, because they are our own.

It is an excellent little play, this "Skidding," which Aurenia Rouverol has written so skillfully that average American family life, with its bickerings, its ambitions and its near tragedies, is presented with no exaggeration whatever and yet so humorously that the wonder is how so many laughs are generated without seeming artificiality.

POLITICS AND FAMILY

The story is that of an Idaho judge, seeking renomination, which could be his if he would truckle just a little to the political gang, but he will not. The most powerful political leader is his friend, but remains neutral because he is seeking a public work contract. Into this situation enters his daughter, home from college, a natural born go-getter, who takes the stump for father, and proves such good political timber that she herself is nominated for the legislature—at a price. The breaking off her engagement because the fiance does not approve.

Two married daughters, returning home, because they are neglected, the departure of mother because daughters would not return to their husbands and the probability that the judge would not be renominated, bring complications that are exceedingly funny.

COMPANY EXCELLENT

The company is a most excellent one. "Skidding," a title that will be obvious if you see the play, has been running 11 months in New York, and the original cast still is in that city, but it is difficult to imagine it could be superior to that in the Pitt. Two youngsters of the family give those who play them the chief acting honors, Adele Ronson, as the daughter home from college, and James Norris, as her brother. Miss Ronson gives a charming characterization of a real American girl, full of pep and loveliness. Young Norris is a juvenile comedian with genuine artistic attainments. His antics are screamingly funny.

Helen Lowell, as his mother, wife of the judge, makes her part a picture of the average mother who has raised a family and thereby gained all the wisdom necessary to cope with the problems of a woman whose husband never has sent her any flowers, a fact which she considers something of a tragedy in an otherwise contented life. Carleton Macy is inflexible, but human as the judge and Laura Pierpont does a nice bit of work as a maiden aunt. Reginald Fyfe, Helen Anderson, Elmer Cornell, Thomas V. Morrison and Rachel Hartzell all add to the satisfactory completeness of the whole.

Enright Stage Show Amuses

The young Mr. Dick Powell is proving a popular master of ceremonies in the Enright. He and his band are the main stay of the stage presentation, "Goin' Strong." Among other featured entertainers are the Patterson Twins, dancers, and the Ritz boys, three collegiate brothers, who pack a lot of laughs. Powell, among other things, sings "Weary River."

Thelma Todd

The photoplay is a mystery drama, titled "Seven Footprints to Satan." In it the movies makers have put spectacles on Creighton Hale and they introduce him as a meek young fellow with money, who thinks he is an explorer and who imagines he wants adventure. And he finds adventure, too, thanks to an uncle of his, right in his own home town—in the house of Satan—and not in Africa as he expected. Strangely made-up characters, insane situations and terrifying shrieks make up the mystery angle. The photoplay isn't very effective. A large cast, headed by Thelma Todd, supports Mr. Hale. Short screen entertainment and an organlogue are on the bill.

TWO MOORES IN STANLEY PROGRAM

Colleen Moore, makes whoopee, eyes and love on the Stanley screen this week. She also does some fast dancing. Her picture is "Why Be Good?"—and we can tell you that it is good. It is as good a picture as Miss Moore has done in a long time.

The photoplay, a comedy romance, concerns boom-boom and youth. It moves along at a pretty and gay pace. It is mostly romance and laughter, though Colleen manages to have some wistful moments. She is seen as a shop girl, who likes to have fun. Out until 3 a. m., she is late for her department store job. A handsome young fellow—Neil Hamilton—attempts to bawl her out for her tardiness, and he the very chap who kept her out until 3 o'clock in the morning! The beginning that leads to the happy ending.

The stage show is a weak portion of the bill. It presents Al Moore and the eight musicians of his United States Navy Jazz Band; Milton Beryl, billed as "a miniature Eddie Cantor," and the Rodion Trio, adagio dancers. The Stanley Orchestra, under David Broudy and featuring Carlo Benetti, vocalist, pleases with an overture of "Rose Marie" music. Short screen entertainment completes the program.

Edmund Lowe Star in Aldine

Edmund Lowe wears a mustache, goes fishing and tries a hand at welfare work in "Making the Grade," current Aldine picture. And we might as well tell you at the beginning that Edmund makes the grade before the final fadeout. The end turns out to be a church wedding. The girl involved is Lois Moran. The picture has sound, music and some talk. In the film Mr. Lowe is a snobbish and none too heroic young man of wealth. He meets his fate in the person of Miss Moran. Lucien Littlefield figures prominently in the cast and helps Edmund with his fishing, romance and welfare work. He also is involved in a free-for-all fist fight that proves Mr. Lowe is a man after all.

Lois Moran.

The bill includes Marion Harris, who sings "Ten Little Miles from Home" and another number on the sound screen. Joe Lewis, night club entertainer, and McKay and Ardine, vaudeville entertainers, also are seen and heard in screen acts. News pictures and a comedy film complete the bill.

Noted Diver In Sheridan

Annette Kellerman, swimmer, diver and exponent of physical culture in developing the form, is the vaudeville feature of the bill of variety acts and photoplays being presented in the Sheridan Square for the first three days of this week. Jessel is the star of the principal film, "Lucky Boy," in which he appears as a young vaudeville actor who makes good after a failure and becomes a famous star. The stressed theme is mother love. In the course of the action, Jessel sings a number of songs, including "My Mother's Eyes." The film has dialogue. Other acts and audible films round out the bill.

FOOTLIGHTS AND FILMS :-: FEATURE :-: ARTISTS SHOWN HERE

Colleen Moore has the stellar role in "Why Be Good?" It is the Stanley screen feature.

William Powell is a scientific detective in "The Canary Murder Case," photoplay in Penn.

The Mason-Dixon Dancers, six of them, are clever steppers with a vein of humor in their rhythmic jigging. And the five "Maids of the Year" give a picturesque and graceful aerial exhibition. Kate Smith sings "Hallelujah" with more vim than virtuosity. And Jess Libonati gives a good imitation of a pipe organ playing "Mother Machree"—with a xylophone to assist him.

Apache Story Regent Film

Dolores Costello, in "The Redeeming Sin," is appearing on the Regent screen. The leading man is Conrad Nagel, and the cast includes Lionel Belmore, George Stone, Warner Richmond, Nina Quantero and Philippe de Lacy. It is a story of the Paris of the Apaches with dialogue, which presents Miss Costello as Joan Villaire, tempestous cafe dancer. Short Vitaphone features and a news reel complete the program.

Dolores Costello

Fun and Dance Academy Bill

"Laffin' Thru," burlesque in the Academy, is a mixture of comedy, song and dances. Featured in the show are the shimmy dances of "Peaches" and Joe Van's comedy. "Little Egypt" is a special feature, appearing in Oriental dances. Althea Conley's melody, Art Harris' Yiddish comedy and the songs of Don Proctor, juvenile, also are prominent. Edna Harris, Katherine Stevens, Benny Kannes and Billy DeGray are other principals. The Monte Carlo Jazz Band appears in a musical specialty that is appreciated.

MIMICRY AND JUGGLER IN DAVIS

Nan Halperin is the bright particular star of the vaudeville in the Davis this week, though Felovis the Juggler also shines. She presents satirical song sketches of famous women—Lucrezia Borgia, Martha Washington and Catherine the Great. Her ballads are amusing, very much so in spots; her rapid change from one costume to the other is amazing and the artistic mimicry, added to her pleasing personality, creates a happy impression.

GRAVITY DEFIED

So too with Felovis, a dextrous manipulator of hats, canes, cigars, balls, lamps and plates. Felovis has one of the most attractive scenic backgrounds for his act.

Among other numbers, the comedy of Steve Freda and Johnny Palace proved very funny and their singing most appealing. Kenneth Harlan in a one-act comedy by Aaron Hoffman showed how a modern Petruchio tames an up-to-date shrew on her honeymoon at Niagara—a snappy little play well put across.

CONGRESS SURE TO PASS 'DOPE' MEASURES

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Remedial narcotic legislation recommended by President Hoover's law enforcement commission will be enacted speedily by Congress.

Capitol leaders gave this assurance yesterday in announcing approval of Mr. Hoover's plans to have the commission conduct a thorough survey of the drug problem.

During the last session, the Senate unanimously adopted a resolution calling for a congressional narcotics inquiry. The proposal was blocked in the House. While it had been planned to seek action again in the special session, starting April 15, this proposal will be held in abeyance pending the outcome of the President's investigation.

PROGRAM DEVISED

After a careful canvass, the Narcotic Rehabilitation Association has formulated a legislative program designed to cope with the general problem. It will be presented to the commission.

"The problem falls into three general divisions, viewing the question from a merely domestic standpoint," said the association.

"First, the revision of present regulations to fortify more effectively against the illicit drug traffic. Second, the revision of present regulations to check the illegal trafficking in drugs acquired through legal channels. Third, the establishment of adequate facilities for the reclamation, or hospitalization and cure of those afflicted.

MORE AGENTS NEEDED

"Under the first two phases of the problem dealing with illegal traffic in drugs, our observation and study leads us to suggest several avenues of reform that would react, we believe, to more effective control. They are noted generally as follows:

"A program for more effective international co-operation between police in exchange of information as to operations of drug rings; the establishment of an intelligence unit in foreign countries to prevent the exportation of drugs to the United States; increase in the number of narcotic enforcement agents; provision for schooling of narcotic agents; an amendment to the immigration law provided for the deportation of aliens convicted of violating narcotic laws; a provision making it mandatory for federal judges to impose more severe sentences, especially in cases of second and subsequent offenses; and uniformity of all laws, state and national, dealing with narcotics."

HOOVER WORKS ON FARM AID

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(AP.)—With the special session still a month away, President Hoover is turning his thoughts toward the development of plans for dealing with farm relief in his message to Congress.

Already the President has given much thought to the problem and his views largely are being followed by the committees of the Senate and the House in planning hearings to work out the legislation. These will be opened several weeks before the special session starts.

Although Mr. Hoover is reserving the public revelation of his message plans, it is known that the committees are preparing to approach the task largely from the co-operative marketing scale.

In several of his speeches last summer in which he dealt with farm relief, Mr. Hoover stressed the part that he feels co-operative marketing must play in assuring the farmer a proper price for his product. Along with co-operative marketing, he placed tariff revision and the development of cheaper transportation to markets.

In the midst of his farm relief study, however, the President still finds time for innumerable conferences upon patronage, federal appointments, immigration, prohibition and the wide range of subjects that find their way to the desk of the chief executive.

Off With Carbuncles, Asks City Pay $247

Council has received a bill of $247 from Frank T. Lunt, an employe of the water bureau, to reimburse him for lost wages and money paid for medical attention while he was incapacitated from August 17 to October 8, 1928. An accompanying letter from the law department stated Lunt left his work to be treated for boils, but on examination by a doctor he was found to be suffering from carbuncles. The state Workmen's Compensation Bureau has refused aid, the law department declared.

Gas Warfare Vets To Hold Reunion

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 12.—For illegally obtaining $13, Alexander McKeefer, of Canonsburg, must serve a term of six months to a year in the Western penitentiary. McKeefer, recently released from the workhouse for felonious breaking and entry, pleaded guilty before Judge Erwin Cummins to forging the name of his brother, Harry McKeefer, with whom he was living, to a check on a local bank.

INTERESTING SCENES AT DOWNTOWN FURNITURE STORE!

All records for attendance in any Pittsburgh furniture store were shattered Saturday at Spear's Semi-Annual Dollar Sale. It was the opening day of the event, inaugurated by value-giving that drew people from miles around.

From 9 A. M. until after 4 P. M. there was a continuous lineup of customers on the outside of the store waiting their turn to enter the crowded downtown Spear Store.

The happy face of Mrs. Carrie France, 3939 Butler street, certainly indicates that she is highly pleased with her Dollar Sale purchases. She is a loyal Spear customer, as is the lady to the right, Mrs. A. J. Lachman, Baptist Road, Library, Pa. Mrs. Lachman is waiting for her husband to bring the car to assist with her packages.

There are many children shoppers at Spear's. Here is one of them! Parents know that Spear's gives just as courteous attention to children as to grown-ups, and so when mother cannot come down herself she doesn't hesitate to send Johnny.

It seemed as if all of Pittsburgh's flapper population visited Spear's Jewelry Salon Saturday. Genuine Deltah Chokers, the $3.50 grade, were being offered at $1.

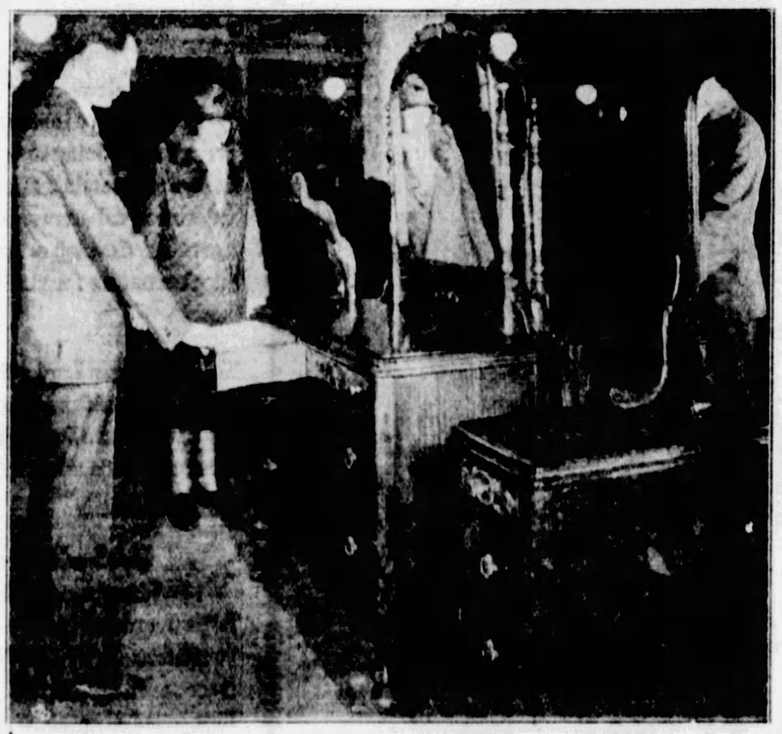
Another view inside the big downtown Spear Store, showing the continuous line of shoppers Saturday.

Scores of Pittsburgh families will now enjoy a radio in their homes as a result of the great radio value! Record-breaking crowds filled this department from 9 A. M. until 9 P. M. All sales records were shattered! Here we see Mr. E. M. Bannon demonstrating the famous all-electric radio set which is offered completely equipped at only $59.50—practically half price!

Mr. Andrew Shell demonstrating one of the beautiful Spear Dining Room Suites. The 8-piece group at $69 certainly pleased everyone who saw it.

Three of Pittsburgh's Finest—Officers Henry, Moss, and Boyle, who helped to keep the crowds in order. Their good-natured remarks kept everyone happy.

Another view of the big Downtown Spear Store, showing another section of the great crowd. This scene was duplicated at Spear's East Liberty Store!



Many Pittsburgh homes are going to boast of a most charming new Bedroom outfit, judging from the heavy response to Spear's announcement of smart 3-piece Bedroom groups at $69. Here we have Mr. George Loebig showing one of these suites to an interested customer.

There is great activity in Spear's new Housewares Department. Mr. Mills, the buyer, is demonstrating the new Wringerless Easy to one of the store's visitors.

The Land of Romance -:- By Truda Dahl

LOST in the romance of centuries ago, she's perfectly oblivious to her surroundings. There she sits picturing herself in the role of the princess with the prince tenderly showing her his castle, and dreaming of the wonderful days of happiness which are to be hers.

And the real romance stands quietly beside her and strives to gain her attention for one little second. That's life, though! What's nearest to us and closest we never see nor heed. But soon, Dan Cupid will step in, and then gone will be the dreams of ancient splendor and another modern romance will spring into flower and "They'll live happily ever after."

Love and Vitamins

Owed to a Vitamin.
At golf, a mighty man is he!
He walks with a lively step
For his veins are full of Vitamin B.
And he worships the great god PEP!

He can dance all night, this son of joy,
Like a faun on the hillside, free;
For he's full of Vitamin B!

THE average man needs a lot more love than he deserves. But, fortunately, the Lord made woman far more eager to be needed than to be "deserved."

One of the great mysteries of life, to modern wives and golf-widows, is why the manufacturers go right on making house coats and house slippers for men.

HELEN ROWLAND

When a man says, "I never loved like THIS before!" don't doubt him. A man falls in love with so much ease and facility each time that he scarcely recognizes it as the same old emotion.

Many a man who will cheerfully pay any price for synthetic liquor, will balk at paying the price of genuine one-hundred-proof love.

A man's kisses are first careful, then eager, then rapturous, then tender, then casual. But his love is not actually dead until they become dutiful.

A kiss may not amount to much in itself these days, but it is still equivalent to running up the white flag to let the enemy know he surrenders the frontier.

The trouble with the modern love affair is that it is just a little prologue, with an abrupt ending, no suspense, no thrills, no plot and no continuity.

A Continuation of Love's Embers

Harry Suddenly Shows Formal Attitude Toward Lillian

INVOLUNTARILY I glanced at Lillian as Mother Graham asked her to accompany her on the after-luncheon drive in the new car. I found her eyes fixed on her husband with an oddly hesitant and puzzled look, which increased my bewilderment at her reaction to Harry's sudden formal courtesy of manner toward her.

I am sure Mr. Underwood did not see the expression on her face, for he gave her only the most perfunctory glance as he said:

"Do come with us, Lillian. I'm sure it would do you good."

His voice and manner were still those which he might have used to Princess Olina's mother were that august personage a guest at the farmhouse, and again I saw a hurt, bewildered look shadow Lillian's eyes. But there was no trace of any emotion in her reply which she made to Mother Graham, including her husband casually.

"It's so kind of you, Mother Graham," she said, then interpolated a "thank you, Harry," as perfunctory as his own speech. "But I don't believe I'm quite up to driving this afternoon."

"I know you're not," Katherine told her. "If you had asked your faithful old nurse"—she pointed to herself with a stilted cinema gesture—"she would have told you that you could not go. You'd be very apt to bring that headache back. No, no, m'dear. The veranda for yours all day."

"I shall be glad to follow that prescription," Lillian said, "I'm still sleepy and tired."

"Why don't you have a nap out here after luncheon, mother dear?" Marion asked. "I'll mount guard over you and see that nobody speaks."

"Who will mount guard over you?" Dicky teased, but I lost Marion's retort, for Harry Underwood was speaking to me.

"Is luncheon at 1 today?" he asked.

"If a certain culinary plan of Katie's doesn't go awry," I answered, remembering the pink pudding which my little maid was concocting.

"Then I'll have time to run down to the village for an errand I've forgotten. I'm not going to ask anyone to join me this time, for I'm going to swing a mean foot on the gas."

"Except me," Dicky said, rising. "We'll die together, old top."

They went down the steps together, and as they crossed to the car, Dicky's voice, which has an unusual carrying quality, came back to us distinctly.

"Well, Smoke, when you mourns, you sho mourns right, even to black underclothes."

The reference to an old joke, over which we all had laughed, startled me for an instant, then I understood that Dicky was rallying Harry about his sudden change in his manner to his wife. I wondered if my husband guessed who was responsible for his friend's sudden abandonment of familiar slangy endearments to Lillian. And, suddenly panic-stricken lest Lillian also should guess the truth by some flash of her keen perceptions, I kept my eyes carefully trained on the departing car.

But my air of unconsciousness availed me nothing. I heard a chuckle from Lillian, then her voice mirthfully admonishing me:

"You can stop the ostrich stunt, now, Madge."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, March 13

THE astrological forecast for this day is not very important, the lunar transits being rather negative. With the luminaries in semi-sextile aspect, it may be conceded that those in the employment of others may expect slight benefits, favors or preferment from their superiors. Nevertheless, there is a sign of small deceptions or treachery and it would be well to be on guard.

Those whose birthday it is may not look for a very important year. Things may move along in routine grooves, excepting that those in the employment of others may have some recognition or favors from those in authority. There is some menaces of treachery or deceit, and it would be wise to be on guard.

A child born on this day may be equipped for success in employment. However, it should be disciplined in straightforward ways in life.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Why Certain Foods React Unpleasantly

WE hear a lot these days about "the anaphylactic effects of foreign proteins." Don't be scared by these ponderous words. They can be explained in the language of the natives. You are a twentieth century person and want to know something about things.

DR. COPELAND

A solution containing a protein of some sort may be injected into the blood stream or the tissues of the body. Perhaps it may be an unusual substance, something foreign to the normal and usual constituents of the body. One example of what I mean by such a "protein" is the white of an egg.

You are familiar with the fact that that a serum has been found that protects against typhoid fever. Ordinarily, the several infections produce very little painful or disturbing reactions. They result in "prophylaxis," or protection against typhoid fever.

Such serums are really proteins, "foreign proteins." Most persons react favorably to them.

Unfortunately, however, in rare cases, instead of being "prophylactic," or protective against the disease, they make the condition worse. Instead of helping, they do exactly the opposite. This is what is meant by an anaphylactic state.

The first dose may be received kindly, but after that the body resents the reception of the strange proteins. Instead of good effect, harmful symptoms are observed. Damage has been done and an unpleasant condition results.

There has been produced a state of "anaphylaxis." There is shock to the system.

Some foods act this way in certain persons. It is indeed true that "what is one person's food is another person's poison."

Since we have gone so far into this subject, it would seem wise to complete the discussion. In this connection let us consider asthma.

Not only certain germs, but also the consumption of certain foods, and the breathing of the emanations from animals, may cause an attack of asthma. Something is given off from the horse, or dog, or cat, or the hair of the rabbit, that may cause a sensitive person to have an attack of asthma.

But there are other ways of getting asthma. Egg, wheat, oats, milk, pork, shell fish, or some other familiar food, may bring on the painful symptoms of asthma.

Hay fever and certain skin conditions, called hives or eczema, may be symptoms of anaphylaxis. There is a failure of the system to tolerate the offending food, or the pollen of flowers, or animal emanations, or whatever it is that is at fault.

I have read of a man who was so sensitive to egg albumen—the white of egg—that he could eat the meat of a rooster, but couldn't eat that of a hen! That is a remarkable example of real anaphylaxis.

Heredity enters into the causation of anaphylaxis. It is not uncommon for several members of the same family to have hay fever, asthma and certain unpleasant reactions to certain foods. The cells of the body of the several members of one family possess this peculiar sensitiveness to a given protein.

There, that is a long lesson about a puzzling and uncomfortable condition, anaphylaxis. Fortunately, it is rarely met.

Prophylaxis is a blessing and we strive to find prophylactic or protective measures for the prevention of human ailments. But also the research men are seeking to solve the mysteries and dangers of the opposite state.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A Question of Tradition

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been married about two months. The other evening my husband and I visited the home of my girl friend. They were commenting on by wedding, and my girl friend's mother said: "I was surprised to hear the pastor ask if there was any one who knew any reason why the ceremony shouldn't take place; in fact, I wouldn't allow my daughter to be married by a pastor who included this in the ceremony." Is her criticism of the ceremony correct? D. B. O.

Be More Formal

DEAR MRS. BEECHMANN:

I have been married three years, and, unfortunately, during that time have had a number of trained nurses in my home. These ladies have all called me by my first name and not by my marriage name. They were all strangers and not any one of them stayed long, and the last one said, "Oh, you are so young and little; you're a little girl." The same excuse from each. Lately my manicurist has done the same. How can I prevent transient professional people from addressing me so intimately and, in the case of the manicurist, stop the practice without seeming "snobbish and high-hat?" I wish to maintain a dignified, pleasant relationship with these people, but I feel embarrassed. G. P.

I CANNOT understand this difficulty you have had, and especially since your letter sounds and looks so very dignified. However, since it has happened to you more than once, and since it has again happened lately, you must, I think, be compelled to examine yourself for some probably unconscious lack of dignity or restraint in addressing them. It would not be a question of being snobbish or high hat; it is simply a question of ordinary respect that should be demanded of these people who serve you in a formal capacity. Are you extremely informal in talking with these people? The next time this first-name occurrence happens say, "Please call me Mrs. ——, I prefer that."

INSTEAD of exercise

Millions of busy men and women are keeping themselves in perfect condition nowadays because they've learned the secret of the exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime.

Cascarets give your bowels as much exercise as you get from an hour in the saddle. They give you lasting relief from headaches, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, etc. Each time you use them, your bowels become stronger. Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives produce only mechanical or chemical action, which actually weakens the bowels.

Cascarets are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and exercises the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this. That's why Cascarets are selling at the rate of 20 million boxes a year!

Famous for Her Ever-Youthful Appearance.

"'Reach for a Lucky and not for a sweet.' That's been my policy ever since Luckies started—my way of retaining the figure I need to be known as the ever-youthful Fannie Ward. So I say to you women who want to cheat time as I have done, 'Reach for a Lucky and not for a sweet.'"

FANNIE WARD

THE modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

ASSEMBLY VOTES PRAISE OF MELLON, SLAPS SENATE

HARRISBURG, March 12.—(AP.)—A resolution condemning "unjust and unfair criticism" of President Hoover because he did not submit the name of Andrew W. Mellon to the United States Senate for confirmation as secretary of the treasury was passed unanimously by the House of Representatives last night.

The resolution, submitted by Representative Voltz, Philadelphia, also expressed the commonwealth's confidence in Mr. Mellon.

Not a dissenting voice was heard when unanimous consent for passage of the resolution was asked.

The resolution said:

"Whereas, The President has seen fit to retain in his cabinet Andrew Mellon as secretary of the treasury and therefore saw no reason to submit the name of Mr. Mellon to the United States Senate for approval; and, whereas, a little group of malcontents in that body have seized upon this incident as a publicity vehicle for themselves and an opportunity to embarrass both the President and Mr. Mellon; and, whereas, we believe that an overwhelming majority of the members of the United States Senate and the citizens of the United States recognize the past services of Mr. Mellon in the Cabinet for what they were, the great and outstanding work of a great and outstanding man, without parallel in the history of our country; and, whereas, the citizens of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania look with pride and admiration and faith upon this great public servant, their fellow citizen; therefore be it.

"Resolved, (If the Senate concur) that the general assembly of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, through the medium of this resolution, go on record as condemning the unjust and unfair criticism of the president in this incident, and xpress to the secretary of the treasury our unbounded faith in him as a public servant and admiration and respect of him as a man."

"It pays to have a 'second best' of everything"

"When I buy a new dress," says a well-to-do woman, "my last dress becomes my second best, and so with hats and shoes. So now I have a car all to myself—and what a convenience it is!"

An economical way to give your family the advantages of a second car: Keep your present car when you buy your new car—instead of trading it in.

More and more families are doing this each year. The second car keeps mother and children together, makes household purchasing more economical, enlarges in every way the family's field of opportunity.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Lawrence Barrs Make Known Engagement Of Daughter

THESE first sunlit days, harbingers of that most loved of all the seasons, spring, enkindle a joyous warmth in our hearts, long chilled by ascetic winter. And the golden yellow of the new world draws us out-of-doors after our long months of indoor dwelling. Those who liked the paintings in the one-man show at the Associated Artists' Exhibit this year are delighting in the miles and miles of Bayard landscape one may motor through without going more than a few miles from the Golden Triangle. All of us have that singing feeling within us that something new and fresh is about to come to us.

In the social world Easter, only two weeks from next Sunday, will be followed by a renewed interest in social events at home. There'll be spring weddings and informal entertainments right here in Pittsburgh.

At the winter resorts entertaining is at its height, for social leaders there know that the season there in the South is nearing its end, because the poignancy of the northern spring draws travelers homeward.

THERE'S a hint of spring in the social news of the southland, too. Engagements and weddings are taking their belated place in southern events.

From Pinehurst, North Carolina, comes an engagement of much interest in Pittsburgh. The Lawrence Barrs, of Pittsburgh, who now spend the early winter in New York, and the latter part in Pinehurst, have made known the engagement of their daughter, Mrs. Jeanne Harriett Gray, to Brant Murray Saunders, of Montreal.

The Barrs are members of Pinehurst's cottage colony. They, and of course, their daughter have been prominent in social life there.

DOWN at Palm Beach entertainments for house guests are more and more numerous. Miss Lillian Washburn Newlin entertained, news has reached me, on Sunday at a luncheon, golf and bridge for her house guests. And among them was Mrs. Edward P. Tunnell, of this city. The guests at the entertainment included Lord and Lady Erskine.

* * *

FOLKS are already making plans for their return. Senator and Mrs. David Aiken Reed will arrive from Europe on April 13, I've learned. They'll spend a short time in New York.

* * *

A few Pittsburgh people are hastening to the South for eleventh-hour visits. Mrs. Matthew Taylor has just joined her mother, Mrs. William H. Cassidy, at Ormond Beach.

THE Simon T. Pattersons are home again. They were at Nassau in the Bahamas, I believe I've mentioned before. They stopped over in New York several days before coming back to Pittsburgh.

The G. Webber Barneses and their daughter, Priscilla Barnes, are expected home from Honolulu the latter part of the month. And I venture to prophesy that Priscilla's engagement to William W. Whitecomb, son of Mrs. Baird Young, of Pittsburgh, and the late Eugene P. Whitcomb, will end in a spring wedding.

MANY folks will go down to the William Penn Hotel this evening to the aircraft show dinner, there to develop the proper aerial point of view in readiness for the Aero Club ball on Friday night in the William Penn Hotel.

Among the women interested in the Aero Club ball this year are Mrs. Gordon C. King, Mrs. William Watson Smith, Mrs. Leonard G. Woods, Mrs. Laura S. Oliver, Mrs. A. W. Wycoff, Mrs. Frank A. Leovy, Miss Margaret A. Jamison and Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl.

MR. AND MRS. ALFRED S. GRAHAM, of the Negley Apartments, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ina La Verne Graham, to Frederick Way, Sr., of Sewickley. The engagement will terminate in a spring wedding.

* * *

ANNOUNCEMENT is made by Mrs. Herman A. Lewis, of Morrowfield avenue, of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Beatrice Gottfried Lewis, to Samuel Albert Lichter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham E. Lichter, of Lockhart street, North Side.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. CLARENCE P. BYRNES, of Sewickley, are at the Savoy-Plaza, New York, for an indefinite stay.

* * *

MRS. EDWIN RAWSTHORNE, of Grandview avenue, returned Sunday from Washington, where she attended the inauguration, later going to Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Federation Service Convention Theme

"THE General Federation as It Serves the Community" is to be the theme of the biennial council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which will be held in Swampscott, Mass., May 28 to June 1, and for which Mrs. John A. Frick, president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women is program chairman. Motoring to Marblehead, Salem, Gloucester, Concord and Lexington, as well as seeing Boston and its environs, will be among the features of "play-day." The council meeting this year will be of unusual interest as it is the first under Mrs. John F. Sippel's administration. Mrs. Frick speaks of it as "promising to be a glorified house party," since all the delegates will be accommodated under one roof, the New Ocean Hotel. The president of every federated club, or her alternate, is eligible to attend the Council meeting as a delegate.

MRS. DULCE FISKE FAIRMAN, president of the Keystone Association for Historical Research, addressed the Homewood Women's Club yesterday afternoon when the club met in Homewood Carnegie Library with Mrs. F. H. Burdick as leader. Mrs. Mabel O. Taylor, of the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, spoke in the interest of the sightless, and after the program a sale of articles made by the blind was conducted under Mrs. W. I. Goss's chairmanship. During the social hour Mrs. E. W. Kennedy and her aides of the social committee served tea. The March 25 meeting will have Mrs. J. G. Chalfant, district chairman of club institutes in the State Federation, as the speaker.

MRS. DAVID WILSON KUHN, of Woodland road, president of the Alliance Francaise, will entertain the members on Saturday afternoon with a matinee "litteraire et musicale" in her home. A program will be presented and the French library will be open for exchange of books.

THE Teachers' Art Club entertained in the Hotel Schenley on Friday night, the committee in charge including the president, Miss Alice Henry, the other officers, and Miss Irene Haney, Miss Mary McMunigle, Miss Catherine McDevitt, Miss Byrd Neel, Vincent Roy and Homer McAdow.

THE lecture bureau of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women, under its chairman, Mrs. Anne E. Felix, announces an illustrated lecture of Colombia, Panama and Ecuador to be given by Stephen Q. Hayes, at the Council house, Penn avenue, Thursday evening, March 21. Mr. Hayes, in his nine months' tour over the Spanish Main traveled by boat, plane and rail and took 1,200 pictures. He will use 100 of these made into slides to illustrate his talk. William Saunders McMahon will give his second lecture, "Trade and Its Influence on World Peace," Thursday evening.

ACCORDING to Ernest Rhys, of London, editor of "Everyman's Library," and author of several novels, an author does not count unless he can make certain scenes or localities live. Mr. Rhys addressed the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning and, in his talk showed how Dickens, Hardy, Arnold Bennett, the Brontes, Galsworthy, Joseph Conrad and Bernard Shaw have so realistically portrayed certain parts of English life and scenes that they will live forever. The psycho-analytical writers, among them Aldous Huxley and D. H. Lawrence, were also discussed by the speaker. Huxley was said to have inherited some of his grandfather's scientific strain, but he was criticized for treating his characters as so many microscopic subjects. Mr. Rhys termed the new writing method as "writing from nerves," while the older writers were said to have written with their whole organisms.

ALTHOUGH lacking the stage facilities for presenting their play, the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club members yesterday gave a reading of Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" that lacked but action to make it a production. Nevin, Mrs. Edtep Gott, Mrs. Frank Stoner, Jr., Mrs. Robert Keeney, Miss Priscilla Brown, Mrs. William Booth and Mrs. Elizabeth Jennings.

WEDS SISTER'S DIVORCED HUSBAND

CHICAGO, March 12.—(AP.)—Miss Mary Meeker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, was married at Washington yesterday to Ambrose C. Cramer, her older sister's divorced husband. Cramer is an architect, formerly a resident of Lake Forest, and his bride is prominent in North Shore Gold Coast society.

Announcement of the wedding was made in telegrams addressed to society editors of Chicago newspapers.

FORMER WIFE REMARRIES

Mr. Cramer was divorced two years ago by Mrs. Grace Meeker Cramer on a charge of desertion. She then moved to Santa Barbara, Cal., and last September was married to Francis Lloyd, of Philadelphia. By the marriage the second Mrs. Cramer became the stepmother as well as the aunt of her sister's children, Ambrose, 11, and Neville, 4.

Grace Meeker and Cramer were married after a war-time courtship in 1916, the wedding being an elaborate social event. Cramer had won the cross of the Legion of Honor in France. Mary Meeker, the bride of today, was a flower girl at her sister's wedding. After the honeymoon Cramer joined the United States Army and became a lieutenant. He moved from Paris to Lake Forest in 1923.

WEDDING SURPRISES

The wedding at Washington was a surprise to many friends here. It was learned that the couple was married at the Georgetown Presbyterian Church by the Rev. James T. Marshall, who said they planned to leave Washington immediately. In their application for a marriage license Cramer gave his age as 37 and his bride's as 25.

HOOVERS BEGIN SOCIAL DUTIES, GREET DIPLOMATS

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(AP.)—The first formal social function at the White House since the inauguration of President Hoover was given yesterday in the blaze of gold braid, brightly colored epaulets and plumed hats of the diplomatic corps.

Following a precedent of many years standing, President and Mrs. Hoover, within two weeks of moving into the executive mansion, entertained at a formal reception for members of the diplomatic corps.

For the first time since the inauguration, the White House lawn was dotted with black, shiny automobiles, and the full force of White House police guards, and aids were on duty, ushering the ceremoniously bedecked guests to the historic east room.

MRS. HOOVER GRACIOUS

The ministers, ambassadors, secretaries, consuls, charges d'affaires and attaches, with their wives took their places in groups about the room. Then the President, with Mrs. Hoover on his arm, entered the room, and greeted the guests who had come to give their formal good wishes to the new chief executive.

As the couple passed from group to group, stopping to chat with members of each one, servants passed through the room with tea and sandwiches.

Mrs. Hoover, who has had long years of experience as a Washington hostess, graciously wended her way through the White House guests, stopping to greet old friends in the corps and to give words of greeting to new members whom she had not met. She wore the plum colored velvet frock that she chose for the day of inauguration, with brown suede slippers. She followed what has been her lifelong custom of wearing no jewelry.

SIAM MINISTER LEAVING

One of the most colorful figures in the group of 200 guests, was Phya Vijitavongs, the minister from Siam. The reception was his last official Washington function, for he leaves tomorrow to assume his new post in London. With him were Edward H. Loftus, counselor for the legation, and his wife. Loftus will become charge d'affaires when the minister leaves.

Sir Esme Howard, dean of the corps, was one of the first arrivals. Lady Isabella accompanied her husband, dressed in a black frock and a large black hat.

The military attaches of the corps all called upon the new Secretary of War earlier in the day, and the naval attaches will make similar calls tomorrow upon the new Secretary of the Navy.

Sir Esme and Lady Howard are entertaining tomorrow at a formal farewell reception in honor of Secretary and Mrs. Kellogg. Members of the corps and various members of official Washington society will be among the guests.

Home-Made, but Ends Bad Cough In a Hurry

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Put this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and soothes away the inflammation. At the same time it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in obstinate bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

MAN, 71, FREED OF AILMENTS, LAUDS KONJOLA

Hope Had Been Abandoned; Complications Quickly Yield to Merits of Famous Medicine

If your case seems hopeless, if all medicines and treatments have failed to bring relief, take new heart and cheer, for Konjola the new medicine, is at hand with a record of successes over the most obstinate and chronic cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles or rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Daily Konjola is adding to its fame and friends—rightly being called the medicine with more than a million friends. There is a reason for the amazing success of this superremedy, and that reason is that Konjola accomplishes simply because it contains real MERIT. There are no promises nor claims made for this medicine—it stands on a bed-rock foundation of victories and results. If you are ill and would find glorious health, visit the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company, formerly McCulloch's, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, and hear his personal explanation of Konjola. He will tell you about hundreds of actual experiences like that of Mr. David H. Dublin, 130 Forty-first street, Pittsburgh, who recently called and told of the work of Konjola in his case. Mr Dublin's statement, made to the Konjola Man, reads as follows:

"Konjola gave me the surprise of my life for I believed my case to be hopeless. I shall never forget how it restored my health after many years of suffering. Stomach and rheumatic troubles made life miserable, and on top of them a catarrhal condition aggravated me. Foods caused gas bloating and a heavy sensation. My heart palpitated and I was short of breath. My knee joints were sore and stiff; agonizing pains affected my limbs and my ankles were so swollen I found it hard to walk. At times I had a ringing noise in my head. At night a poisonous mucus dripped into my throat, affecting my whole system. I tried numerous remedies, without the slightest relief, and finally came to the conclusion that my condition was hopeless.

"But something had to be done, and when, one night, I read of a local resident finding new health through a brief treatment of Konjola, I decided to take one last chance for betterment and give Konjola a trial. You can imagine my surprise and pleasure when I noticed an improvement on the first bottle. I wouldn't think of missing a dose, and a short time later my stomach was restored to perfect condition. Now I relish food, gain nourishment, strength and weight. Rheumatism is a thing of the past, there isn't an ache or pain anywhere in my body. Last, but not least, the catarrhal condition has been cleared up and I feel sure the relief is lasting. Konjola has been a wonderful medicine to me, and I praise it to everyone as I know what it will do."

Daily more and more indorsements from local people are received and the files of this medicine are filled to overflowing with the glad, happy statements of men and women who found health through Konjola. Is it not logical to believe that what Konjola has done for thousands it will do for you?

Konjola Man is at the Dow Company, formerly McCulloch's, Penn Avenue and Sixth this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this medicine.

HOME DECORATING COUNCIL
Third Meeting

Conducted by Miss Ethel Lewis, of New York University (and the staffs of many magazines), tomorrow's session of the Home Decorating Council will center about and the Dormont New Century Club, of which Mrs. Frank Saunders is president, will act as hostess.

In bringing this five-weeks' forum to Pittsburgh, Kaufmann's believes it is serving the community in a very real way. The city is growing; many new homes are being built; and many of the older homes, unable to resist the urge of the beautiful modern furnishings, have planned to redecorate completely. The women in these homes want to know the newest ideas in decorating, the better ways. And Kaufmann's takes pleasure in putting America's best decorating talent at the service of Pittsburgh. Everyone is welcome, but admission cards must be secured at the Department of Interior Decorating, Eighth Floor.

PITTSBURGH DISTRICT LEADS FLAG CONTEST

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

THERE are motorists who have a sense of direction and others who don't. The former need no map, and apparantly just follow their noses. They belong to the class who tell the inquiring pathfinder to make a couple of turns to the left and one to the right and then wind up by saying: "You can't miss it," not realizing that certain people have a great capacity for missing it. Some of the men with an instinct for direction say they can almost find a road by how the traffic runs. Remembering this on a recent motor trip to Akron I followed a machine at an intersection in Crafton. The fellow in the machine ahead proceeded up a street, stopped, got out and walked into a house. I had to turn around and look for some other pathfinder.

I don't know how our Akron circulation has been going lately, but if persons buy a paper to see their names in it then the circulation department can get ready for an "add" in Akron as I ran into Joe Aylward, Eddie Klaes, two former Pittsburghers; John H. Barry, the business manager of the Akron Beacon Journal; Al Gross, John Greissing, and last but not least, ole Jake Schneckenberger. Mr. Schneckenberger is an expert on telling how to get that yeast taste out of it, as his name might indicate to the average man.

IN AKRON, too, I heard much about a local boy, Herman Fetzer, who operates a column under the pseudonym of Jake Falstaff. He has written two competent books, is still under 35, wears a goatee, weighs 300 pounds or so, and thinks Akron is the most comfortable place in America to live in. He's a local boy whose fame is known to some of the big-wigs in New York.

Akron, by the way, is hopeful of outstripping Pittsburgh some day in an industrial way, but Pittsburghers, of course, won't swallow that one.

I was struck by the fact that in that great rubber town I saw but one native wearing a celluloid collar. He was busy rubbing off with a lead pencil eraser a bit of mud splashed on the collar by a passing machine. Apparently the old gag that "he buys his collars in Akron," is not pat.

Besides its rubber works Akron prides itself on the fact that it is the home of Howard Harpster, all-American football player who captained Carnegie Tech, and the original home of George Sisler.

LEO KELLY, who is a sort of pedestrian Lindbergh in that he carries mail for Uncle Sam, wants the world to know that the boys from the upper South Side are throwing an entertainment in the A. O. H. Hall next Monday night for the families of two destitute ex-soldiers. Such well-known South Siders as Thomas L. Murphy, John Ryan, Joe Kane, Ed Donnelly, William Simpson, John Carney, Jr., Charles McCullough, Bernard Sands, Pat Mcdonaugh, Charles Ritz and Bernard Murray, among others, are putting their well-known shoulders to the equally famous wheel to make the affair a dandy. I will be pardoned for using all these names, I trust, for among them are several fellow-alumni of the South Side schools.

One thing that prohibition has developed, apparently, is a boom in carpenter work, to say nothing of the boom among locksmiths. The places in Pittsburgh that sell laughing water in a serious way specialize on doors. One establishment is protected by four separate doors, each under lock and key. Another is a close second with three. One venerable establishment in the neighborhood district, after a run of some 70 or 80 years, closed up the swinging ones just recently, and now the customers must rap twice and shout "Panjamdrum," the pass word.

CHANGE ZONING IN MT. LEBANON

The redistricting of the wards in Mt. Lebanon Township was aired at a regular semi-monthly meeting held by the township commissioners in the Washington Public School auditorium last night.

At the last general election more than 900 voters were registered in the Third District of the First Ward, which resulted in the slow procedure of the final count. The township solons suggested an additional district in the ward or redistricting of all the wards. Township Solicitor Samuel A. Schreiner was instructed to investigate the legal angles.

ZONE LAW CHANGED

An ordinance was passed rezoning the corner of Overlook drive and Beverly road from a business district to a single family dwelling district. This action was decided on when a delegation of citizens in that locality protested to the building of an apartment building with stores fronting on each corner. Louis Merwitzer is the owner of that property.

George J. Irwin, building inspector, submitted his report, stating 108 building permits were issued from January 1 t March 9, at an estimated cost of $1,566,300. For the same period for 1928, this year's building exceeds it by 13 permits and $653,060.

Permission had been received from the State Sanitary Water Board for the construction of the Beadling District trunk sanitary sewer. The advertising for bids will take place in the near future.

PLAN NEW BUILDING

Plans for the new $175,000 municipal building was submitted by William H King, Jr., architect, and it was decided to call a mass meeting to give the township citizens an opportunity to inspect the plans and offer their suggestions. The date for the meeting will be announced soon.

Stevenson-Williams Company of Mt. Lebanon, presented a new development, to be call' the Beverly School Plan. It was tentatively approved by the commissioners, and the company will start preliminary grading of the plan immediately.

A contract was awarded to the Ed. Vero Company, of Millvale, for the purchasing of emergency supplies, such as sand, cement, bricks and sewer pipes. C. W. Scheck chairman of the board, presided.

Husband Avers Wife Adept Hurler

Charging that his wife was strong on throwing things, when in what he describes as fits of "mad passion," William C. Williams, 604 Broadway, McKees Rocks, has filed a bill of particulars in Common Pleas Court in his divorce suit against Mrs. Lily H. Williams, 109 Parkfield avenue, Carrick. She glanced a chair off his back through a kitchen window, he says, and threw a heavy glass bowl which missed him but smashed the tile mantel. Then she threw a butcher knife at his heart, and nagged him at night so he could not sleep. They were married in 1914 and separated last October.

HALL ACCEPTED AT OVERBROOK

Overbrook's new $40,000 municipal building was formally accepted by the borough solons at a special council meeting held in the building last night. The structure, which houses the general offices, police and fire departments and road equipment, had been occupied since September, but was not completed until yesterday morning. The Good Construction Company of Pittsburgh, general contractors, turned the building over to the borough and it was accepted by a majority vote of council as its municipal building.

The building is a two-story brick structure, designed in colonial style, and said to be one of the finest town halls in the state. The new building was made possible through a bond issue which was passed by the citizens of the borough at a special election held last year. The dedication will take place in May, according to Burgess Ernest E. Mierer.

CO-EDS AT PITT TURN PRINTERS

The University of Pittsburgh printing shop, a bit of a place high on Pitt's hill campus, has turned out its first big book, and much of the work on it was done by two young women compositors.

Picking type by hand, Miss Mary Bullister and Dorothy Keyser, high school graduates, have started on a career in a craft unusually shunned by women. And they like it and will continue, their only objection being that "It makes the hands dirty."

While the print shop has dedicated itself principally until lately with the publication of pamphlets, announcements, programs and similar small work, its outburst into the book world was based on a volume by Dr. Robert Hance, head of the zoology department of the school. He had given 17 talks over the radio on "The Machines We Are," treating of the many biological questions such as heredity and other physical influences, environment, and the issues that confront the human today. Thousands of letters poured in from adults who had listened to a popular explanation of scientific discoveries of today. The result was that the humble Pitt print shop was called on to publish this volume. Since then, several other collections of papers have been submitted and published. But none is so pretentious.

The shop, under the direction of George Langdale, is for university utility exclusively.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, March 12.

Say, this Jones 5 and 10 law (five years in jail and ten thousand dollars), from what you hear around, it's got the whole boottop industry wing ing. The boys just don't relish the five part of it. They don't mind the ten. They are used to paying fines, but you give a man five years to meditate, and he is just doing a little meditating beforehand.

They say Washington never was as dry. Course you got to lay most of that to the Senate and Congress not being in session.

I tell you, if Mr. Hoover can get his judges to enforce that law, he is going to change a lot of habits. He's got 'em wondering already.

Yours, WILL

NEW TRIAL FOR WEINSTEIN, $12,500 VERDICT FALLS

Judge Richard W. Martin has granted a new trial in Common Pleas Court to Isaac Weinstein, retired business man of Pittsburgh and Los Angeles, against whom a verdict of $12,500 was returned in the $100,000 suit of Louis J. Kamons and his wife, Mamie, of 5337 Bartlett street, last December 13.

The judge holds that the verdict was excessive, declaring that in his opinion there was no corroborating testimony and it would be a grave injustice to allow the verdict to stand.

In the suit it was contended that Weinstein forced unwelcome attentions upon Mrs. Kamons in a Pullman drawing room on a train going from Pittsburgh to Dayton, O., and again at a hotel in Dayton.

Kamons and Weinstein were business and personal friends.

Penn. Child Amazes Mother

Constipation is one of the worst health rumers for children. Waste matter held too long in their little stomachs and bowels forms poisons which pollute their blood, causes headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, indigestion; makes them bilious, weak, sallow, fretful and underweight.

At the first sign of constipation, give your child a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity flavor. It's purely vegetable, a gentle but certain laxative, and it gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Thousands of Pennsylvania mothers are praising it. Mrs. Rose M. Crosson, 225 So. Frazier St., Philadelphia, says: "My little son, Billy, was bilious and constipated. His breath was bad and he never wanted anything to eat. He was fretful, pale and weak.

"Nothing seemed to help him until I got some California Fig Syrup. His trouble stopped after the first few doses, and he amazed me by the way his pretty, natural color came back. Soon he was as playful and happy as ever and he's been gaining ever since."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is imitated, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Dick Stuyvesant and Felicia Brett, both in Reno for divorce, meet and fall in love with each other. With Dick at the hotel is a bachelor friend, John Berkeley, usually called J. B. Felicia, with her 6-year-old son, is visiting the Hodges, old friends from the East, now permanent residents of Reno. Her husband, Alexander Brett, comes to Reno and on her refusal to return to him, threatens to take little Alex away from her. He hires detectives to watch Felicia and has two gunmen kidnap the boy. The boy is rescued by an odd character known as the Desert Rat and restored to Dick and J. B., who are out looking for him with a member of the state police. From the report of his private detective, Brett learns that the Rat was once a prosperous broker, Stephen Pierce. Brett recognizes the name and laughs exultantly. With the failure of the kidnaping attempt and no more visits from Brett, Felicia believes that her husband has abandoned his opposition. Dick notices a change in her, an interest in Reno festivities, that makes him anxious. He has to go away on a business trip, but wishes that he did not have to leave her. Restless in Dick's absence, Felicia accepts an invitation from young Peg Hodge to drive with her and two college boys. Her escort, Billy Blair, is openly admiring. When he offers her his flask, she hesitates, then takes it and drinks. Under the influence of the liquor and a spirit of devil-may-care, she permits Billy to kiss her. Then follows a bathing party at night and a separation into pairs. Billy makes love to Felicia and she returns his mad kisses. The next night the pleasure-mad crowd goes to an inn on the California-Nevada line. Billy takes Felicia into a private room and tells her he is crazy about her. Her scream when he attempts to embrace her is heard by Dick, who has stopped at the inn on his way back from his business trip.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX.

DURING the 40-mile ride from the Gold Rush dance hall to the door of the Hodge house, neither Dick nor Felicia spoke a word. Her coat wrapped securely about her torn dress, her face pale, Felicia sat in the farthest corner of the car, looking, from time to time, at the set profile of the young man driving.

As they came into the city Felicia began to cry, soundlessly, but if Dick was aware of her tears, he made no sign. He drew up the car at the curb and sat, without speaking, the engine running.

"Thank you," Felicia's voice was barely audible.

"Don't mention it," he replied.

"Good-night, Dicky."

"Good-night."

She turned, blinded by her tears, and stumbled into the house. What had she done? She had spoiled the one thing that had any meaning in her life, wrecked her one chance for happiness!

Dick nodded. Sam was in no higher spirits.

"Mr. Lanier came in and went up to your room. O. K.?" the night clerk greeted him.

Dick nodded. Sam was a good agent—but he didn't want to see Sam; he didn't want to see anyone.

A strange scene greeted him as he opened his door. Sam Lanier, who had found another car when Dick took Felicia in his, was smiling amiably, sitting in a chair, idly turning an automatic over in his big hands. J. B., sleepy, but smiling, was sitting in another chair, and Edith Feeley, in street clothes, was weeping bitterly into a handkerchief.

"Oh, hello!" Lanier greeted Dick. "This little lady has been going through your papers. I thought I'd keep her here until you got back."

"Oh, Mr. Stuyvesant—"

"Shut up!" Sam's voice was curt; he looked at the woman contemptuously.

"Two things always give me a pain: palm-singing men and crying women." His eyes traveled over Dick's face. "I don't mean to be personal, Stuyvesant, but, is there anything particularly convicting among your papers?"

Dick shook his head. There was nothing. He and Felicia had never written to one another . . .

"Then you'd better get out!" Lanier was again addressing Mrs. Feeley. "Spy and blackmailer—you're just about the lowest form of animal life!" He looked at his watch. "There's a train for the East in the morning. Better take that." She had moved eagerly toward the door, and he reached out and caught her arm, swinging her about. "You understand me?" he asked. "Train—for—the—East!"

She nodded, was gone.

Dick wondered what Lanier had told J. B. He was a silent cuss, though: at the Gold Rush, after Dick had found Felicia, Sam had made no comment, asked no question when Dick asked him to get a lift to Reno from someone else.

"I think I'll turn in." He said good-night and went gloomily into his room.

He did not see Felicia for a week; then, again at the Coopers, he was placed beside her at the dinner table. She looked thin, almost haggard.

"What have you been doing?" he asked, in spite of his resolution to say nothing personal.

"Not much. Making friends with my son, mostly—we haven't been together so much in years!"

They were glad when dinner was over.

Dick threw himself into the business of becoming a mine owner. With Sam Lanier, he tramped up and down mountain trails, motored across desert tracks.

"Look here, Dick," J. B. addressed him, abruptly, one day. "You and Felicia are a couple of fools!"

Dick stiffened. "I haven't asked for any advice," he said.

"I know you haven't! But you need it and you're going to get it!"

Dick listened sulkily and sulkily thought over J. B.'s words. Well, it wouldn't do any harm to talk frankly with Felicia, as J. B. suggested. It wouldn't make any difference, either, he told himself savagely! But he telephoned her and a meek voice unhesitantly replied "Yes" when he asked if she would drive with him.

"I've wanted so to—to try to explain," she said earnestly, sitting there in her old place beside him, in the roadster. "Oh, I'm not going to excuse myself! But—if you'll listen, Dick—"

He listened stolidly. But the sound of her voice was sweet to his ears, and the feeling of her nearness made him tremble.

He stopped the car abruptly.

"Oh, damn it all, Felicia, what difference does it make? No matter what you'd done—I love you!" His voice shook with emotion, and suddenly she was in his arms, close against his breast, and he was kissing her lips, her eyes, her hair, straining her against him.

She was crying, softly. "I'm so sorry—so ashamed! Oh, Dick darling . . ."

"And yet it doesn't seem to touch the people who live here—people like Ann and Tom," Felicia puzzled.

"It's because we haven't enough to do, we others," said Dick. "No matter how much we want divorce there's an inescapable emotional reaction against it. A reaction we feel we must fight. And in fighting it we also somehow undermine our other moral reactions. From that, the rest is easy. But you and I, Felicia—we have something that's real and fine, and we must cherish it—and each other."

"I promise, Dick!" Her eyes met his steadily. And suddenly they felt safe, at peace—definitely out of reach of the dangerous side of Reno. They had each had a taste of it; Dick with Betty Rogers, at that ghastly hotel party, Felicia with her college boy. It could not touch them again. They knew—instinctively.

Yet it lingered in the air, this recklessness, this abandonment; hovered like a perfume and descended upon—of all people—the disdainful Alexander Brett, seated alone on the hotel lawn just above Lake Tahoe. He was thinking over the reports he had received of Felicia, weighing them in his mind, wondering if it were really true that she had ceased her affair with Dick Stuyvesant.

He was leaning against a tree, hidden from the hotel by its broad trunk; a thick pine hedge formed an angle just before him, closing him in from intrusion.

Suddenly voices roused him. A man and a woman speaking as they paused, just beyond the tree.

"You darling!" said the man's voice.

Silence, utter, complete, and Alexander Brett looked about wildly for means of escape. There was but one way, past this pair, but as he turned to take it, something in the intensity of their embrace seemed to forbid interruption, even by a diplomat. Cornered, he returned to his hiding place. He could pretend to be asleep.

"Oh, my dear!" The woman's voice, liquid, melting. Suddenly its note changed. "Oh, Tommy, do you know what it means to me to feel young again! After seven years of that old man—"

Brett sat up suddenly, stiffly.

"How awful old men are!" the liquid voice went on. "Nasty! He'd—I suppose he'd kill me, if he knew I loved you! He pretends to think that love is unnecessary that one can get on without it!" Her voice rose. "Hypocrite!" she cried. "Just because he's incapable of being either of feeling or inspiring such feelings himself he preaches against them!"

Brett winced. Was this the way Felicia talked to Dick? Was it—could it possibly have in it a grain of truth? Was he too incapable of feeling or inspiring emotion? And was it because of that—because he feared to let her find out how completely incompetent he was at this game of making love that he tried to hold her as his wife, deny the mating cry of youth to youth in her heart? He sat very still, his head whirling with the idea.

The Hand at the Door By LILLIAN M. MITCHELL Daily Short Story

LUCILE PEABODY was afraid. She hated herself for her lack of courage. Usually crisp and decisive and entirely the mistress of any situation which might arise, she could scarcely understand these strange feelings that now arose within her.

Had it been the first time she had seen that hand at the door it might have been different. Or had the hand appeared at times when there were other people in the great office building she would not have minded so much. But an office building in the daylight hours with elevator doors closing and opening, with soft footfalls and hushed voices coming now and again through the closed doors is an entirely different place from an office building in the evening when everyone has gone for the night. Silence, utter and complete silence! Corridors but dimly lighted, frosted glass doors gray and dark like blind eyes staring at one!

Lucile Peabody glanced now at the door. The man who had lettered the door for her had been an artist making the "L" tall and graceful and the "P" with a downstroke that arrested the eye like a good advertisement. At just eight o'clock she knew the hand would appear at that frosted glass and then there would be three hollow-sounding knocks. She had no doubt but that the man was trying to frighten her, but she could give no adequate reason why an able-bodied man should attempt to intimidate a girl alone in an office at night. Looking at the watch on her wrist she saw now that it had stopped. It must have been an hour since she last looked, she thought, and so she turned the hands ahead an hour and wound it absently with one eye still on that door.

It was odd, she thought as she waited, that she always seemed to be a little different from every other girl. Most girls were through with work at five or half past, but her work started sometimes in the morning at half past seven and sometimes a latecomer wanted a lesson at half past eight at night. On the door it just said

LUCILE PEABODY
Languages

When she had opened the studio she had expected to teach foreign languages only, but a great part of her business had turned out to be teaching English with an American accent to foreigners. And very interesting work it was, too, only it kept her downtown in the office building too late. Other nights when the hand had appeared at the door she had sat there too panic-stricken to move. Terror, blind, unreasoning terror had clutched her heart although her brain said over and over that there was nothing to fear. And tonight with no lesson at all she had determined to settle this man with the hand and the three hollow knocks once and for all.

A grim expression that added ten years to her face startled her as she saw her reflection in the little mirror hung above her desk. Her hand reached for the heavy inkwell beside which lay a long, old-fashioned quill pen with jade greenquill. The hand was at the door now; not quite as it had been on those other evenings. The other times it had resembled a fist, gnarled and bony. Tonight the fingers seemed to be tracing out her name and the word languages below it. If that door opened—oh, she wished she had formulated some plan of action beforehand! She wished she hadn't stayed tonight when it was entirely unnecessary! Bravery! What was bravery when a girl was alone on the tenth floor of an office building at night?

With a gentle motion the door was opened, coming in—in—in—

A little moaning cry escaped Lucile Peabody's lips and scarcely aware of what she was doing, she snatched the heavy inkwell and hurled it towards the door. A sputter and a muttered word (one that Lucile never taught in her English word-list) and amazed eyes staring at her from an ink-masked face.

"Well!" said the mouth with an odd twist.

But instead of turning to leave the room, this queer, ink-faced man walked right in and closed the door, his back against it and his hand on the knob. It was all that Lucile could do to refrain from screaming when, with aghast face, she saw the hand at the door—again! This time the double gnarled fist as always and outside the three hollow knocks.

"The—hand at the door!" said Lucile between stiff lips.

The ink-faced man threw open the door and outside stood an elderly janitor with a long-handled soft broom from which he was knocking the dust. With mild eyes he looked up to meet the ink-faced man's eyes. "Yes, sir?" he said without surprise. "Yes, sir?"

"Come by here every night at this time?" asked the ink-faced man.

"Every night, sir, yes, sir! Just as the efficiency man said, sir! Three knocks of the broom exactly every 20 feet, sir. Floor's as clean as a whistle behind me, sir, ready for the washing."

"That'll be all, my man," said the ink-faced one, handing the janitor a coin.

With a nod of thanks the janitor went along the corridor, knocking the dust from the broom with hollow-sounding knocks every 20 feet. The ink-faced man regarded the lettering on the door quizzically.

"He put the broom handle against that long-legged 'P' in Peabody, and the fist looked mean because he was clutching the broom," he let fall at last.

"I'm—I'm so sorry," said Lucile contritely.

"It's nothing, nothing at all," he said hastily, moving towards the basin to wash his face. "I wanted to learn Spanish, you see, and I came up this evening — Harvey Westman sent me."

"Certainly," Lucile said in her most teacher-ish voice that was cool and self-possessed in contrast to her recent warmth of excitement.

"Of course, I've never posed as a ladies' man at all," said the man when he emerged with a fairly white face, "but I never had a girl throw an inkwell at me before—especially a girl that didn't know me or know a thing against me! It just goes to show what you'd do to a fellow if you were really angry at him for any reason!"

And as his term of lessons advanced Lucile Peabody began to think that this acquaintance, starting as it did with such a black face, might prove to be very, very interesting. Especially was this true when on her birthday he brought forth an engagement ring which he presented only after he had moved the inkwell from its close proximity to her on her desk!

RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary. Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

REGULARS PLAY YANIGANS

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Robins' Shortstop Jinx.
Friberg Turns Pitcher.

Preparing for Opener.
Floor Coaches to Meet.
Carlson Hits Tap-Off.

DEMPSEY RANKS GODFREY AS BEST

THOUGH Glenn Wright says that his shoulder injury is not serious and that he will be as good as new before the National League pennant race begins five weeks from today, the Dodger management and Brooklyn fans continue to manifest no little worry over the condition of the former Pirate. This state of mind is due in some measure to the fact that for two decades shortstop has been a jinx position in the Brooklyn club. Followers of the Robins are wondering if the same old hoodoo is going to be in evidence again in the Wright case.

Joe Tinker

On two previous occasions, in particular, the Brooklyn club thought it had filled the shortfield job satisfactorily by obtaining star players for the post from other clubs, as was done last December in trading Jess Petty and Harry Riconda to Pittsburgh for Wright, but each time it was disappointed. It is recalled that back in the winter of 1913, Bill Dahlen's final year as manager and the season before Wilbert Robinson joining the Robins Tinker jumped to the Federal League. In 1920, Larry Kopf was purchased, also from the Reds, but Kopf refused to report and retired from baseball

NOW the Flatbush rooters are fearful that the deal for Wright, that promised so much originally, may also turn out disastrously. It would only be in line with the ill luck that the club has had in that position for 20 years, during which time the Dodgers have tried an army of shorstops. Tom Holmes recalls that from 1909 to 1913 the team had no fewer than seven shortstops in Phil Lewis, Pittsburgh product; Bert Dooley, Tommy McMillan, Humpty McElvain, Frank Smith, Dolly Stark and John Hummell.

Since that time the club has used two or more shortstops in every season except two, the exception being 1919, when Ivan Olson held down the job, and last year, when Dave Bancroft was the regular. Among the players tried were Ollie O'Mara, Joe Schultz, Bunny Fabrique, Mike Doolan, Jack Sheehan, Moe Berg, Ray French, Chuck Ward, Jimmy Johnston, Johnny Jones, Johnny Mitchell, Horace Ford, Rabbit Maranville, Sammy Bohne, Johnny Butler, Jake Flowers and Chuck Corgan.

SINCE he broke into the majors in 1919, Barney Friberg has played nearly all of the regular positions for the Cubs and the Phillies, but now comes the boldest shift of the lot. Manager Burt Shotton, of the Quakers, is trying to turn him into a pitcher and plans to use him on the firing line during the 1929 season.

Bob Smith, of the Braves, was an infielder for five seasons in the minors and majors before he started pitching in 1925, and Red Lucas, of Cincinnati, once gave up twirling to play in the infield for a time and later shifted back from the infield to the hurler's slab. Shotton believes that Friberg can do what Smith and Lucas accomplished.

Barney Friberg

FRIBERG says that for several years he has had an ambition to be a pitcher, and the scarcity of twirling timber in the Phillies' camp this year led Shotton to give him a chance. Barney is said to have a knuckle-ball that ought to be effective if he can acquire the right command of it. "What I have to try for is control," he says. "If I can get that, particularly of the knuckler, I think I'll be able to go pretty well. Of course I have to learn how to pitch all over again. Throwing from third base is much different from throwing them in from the pitcher's box. I'll have to get that sweeping motion that hurlers use. However, I believe I can make it."

SIGNS of the approach of another baseball season in Pittsburgh are in evidence at Forbes Field. While the Pirates are being whipped into shape at Paso Robles for the playing part of the campaign, Secretary Sam Watters, who is in a class of his own in the big leagues as an energetic and thoroughly competent and capable baseball official, is buckling down to the annual task of taking care of the business end of the game.

For the present, the main efforts of Secretary Watters naturally will be directed toward making ready for the opening of the home season and taking care of the wants of the fans in connection with that big annual event. With Bill Gardner and Larry Collier back on the job for the year, it is announced that the office force is now ready to receive and fill mail orders for reserved seats, not only for the opening game but for all other contests during the season. A number of boxes in the new grandstand also are available for season reservation.

JUDGING from the rate at which mail orders for seats at the first game are already coming in, it is certain that one of the largest opening-day crowds in local history will be on hand to see the Pirates and Cubs with Rogers Hornsby now a regular part of Chicago's pennant-seeking club, pry off the lid at Forbes Field on Thursday, April 24.

Dr. H. C. Carlson

In view of the fact that a number of the checks received to date were not made out for the proper amounts, the Pirate officials announce that last year's scale of prices will remain unchanged. Box seats will again be sold at $1.75 each, reserved grandstand seats at $1.25, grandstand general admission at $1, and bleacher seats at 75 cents and 50 cents.

WHEN the National Association of Basketball Coaches holds its annual meeting at the Windermere Hotel in Chicago on April 5 and 6, this region will be well represented. Dr. H. Cliff Carlson, coach at Pitt; John Irwin, of Carnegie Tech; Dutch Herman, of Penn State, Francis X. Stadsvold, of West Virginia, and probably also Chick Davies, of the Dukes, will be present. On the day preceding the regular session the officers and the board of directors will convene, but fan interest will center in the general meeting at which some proposed changes in the playing rule are to be discussed.

AMONG the proposed rule changes to be discussed and acted upon, the principal alterations suggested have to do with the question of dribble and the tap-off at center. Any decisions made will be recommended to the rules committee. The proposal to abolish the tap-off and have the ball put in play from out of bounds is expected to be the topic of the major part of the discussion.

In this connection, Coach Carlson, of Pitt, is the only mentor in this section who has yet made known his views. The Panther chief said yesterday that he will go to the meeting prepared to speak in favor of abolishing the tap-off. His reason for favoring doing away with the play is that he thinks there is always a risk of injury to a center under the present system. He favors leaving the present dribble rule unchanged.

THOUGH Jack Dempsey has not yet admitted publicly that he is going to fight again next summer, he does go so far as to say

DONIE BUSH NOT WORRIED OVER INFIELD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 12.—"We have more than a month to solve that problem, and there are several things we can do. If we cannot work it out any other way, we can put Pie Traynor back at his third base post and play Sparky Adams on short. Meantime, this boy Stroner may be a different player when he recovers from his illness. We still have time to cut him in at third provided he regains his strength."

Donie Bush, Pirate manager, thus summed up the infield situation on his club today. Bush, of course, is deeply concerned over the unsettled condition of his first defense, but he does not appear to be worrying to any degree. The field leader of the Buccos says the team is a corker and one that should be up among the leaders.

BARTELL "PROMOTED"

Bush intends to keep Traynor at the shortfield for the present while he works on several ideas as regards third and second. With plenty of infielders around, he is in a position to experiment extensively.

In the camp battle scheduled between the Regulars and Yanigans this afternoon, Donie will use Sparky Adams at third base. This move had the effect of stealing the peppery Dick Bartell from the Yanigan roster. The Yans were quite proud of Bartell, for he and Broadway Jones furnished a lot of chatter in the interest of the second team. They will be opposing each other today.

The contest set for this afternoon may be the last squad fight of the training season. Bush may decide to play a game on Thursday, that day to be the last in Paso Robles for the first team.

The San Francisco Seals, including the one and only Walter Mails, are due in Paso Robles tomorrow for an exhibition tilt with the Pirate first team. The game was originally slated for Sunday, but it had to be postponed on account of wet weather.

MAILS TO FACE BUCS

The great Mails is down on the bills to work a part of the contest. Previously the little park was pretty well sold out, and it is believed now that many toilers will lay aside their implements to see the Coast League champs in action against the Pittsburghers.

Pilot Donie plans some intensive work before the Pirates depart. The cool breezes of yesterday swayed Bush to cut the activities of the day to one session that began at 11 o'clock.

Pitcher Burleigh Grimes and Outfielder George Grantham were hospital casualties during the day, but neither was in bad shape. Grimes may be excused from today's workout, but Burleigh is not in a bad way.

Sparky Adams worked at third in the fielding session of yesterday, Bartell performing at the keystone sack. The new arrangement will prevail for some time it is thought.

Young Rudy Wins Over Sig Keppen

WELLSVILLE, O., March 12.—Young Rudy, of Charleroi, gave the veteran Sig Keppen of Beaver Falls a lesson in boxing at the local arena last night, getting the edge in every one of the eight rounds of the feature setto.

Rudy hooked, jabbed and poked Keppen to all corners of the ring from the start to the finish and at no time during the proceedings was the Mason-coached entry in distress. He had Keppen, who has fought Cuddy DeMarco, another Mason protege, no fewer than eight times, swinging wildly and busy keeping himself covered up. It was a good fight, but Rudy was the aggressor and "master of ceremonies" from start to finish.

Blitman Victor Over Steve Smith

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—Harry Blitman, Philadelphia junior lightweight, came back into his own when he scored a decision over Steve Smith, of Bridgeport, in 10 rounds, here last night.

Blitman took every round except the first, which was even, and in the third floored Steve for a count of eight. Blitman weighed 134 to Smith's 129½.

Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, claimed a technical knockout victim in Richie King of this city, after 2 minutes 17 seconds of the eighth round of the semi-windup.

Herrick succeeds Roy Peden, of Otterbein College, who has been here for the last two years.

Walker - Loughran Go, March 28, Is Approved

CHICAGO, March 12.—(AP.)—Approval of the match between Mickey Walker, world middleweight champion, and Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight titleholder, opening the Chicago Stadium March 28, has finally been given by the Illinois State Athletic Commission.

A forfeit of $10,000 as a guaranty that Walker will defend his middleweight title against a logical contender, ostensibly Ace Hudkins, before September 30, was posted with the commission. It was in the form of a certified check provided by Jack Kearns, Walker's manager.

PETTY, RICONDA, WRIGHT TRADE TO BE PROBED

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP.)—Training camp advices from Clearwater, Fla., said Wilbert Robinson, president-manager of the Brooklyn Robins, had asked John A. Heydler, president of the National League, to investigate the trade by which the Robins obtained Glenn Wright, shortstop, from the Pittsburgh club in exchange for Jess Petty and Harry Riconda. Wright now is under treatment for an arm ailment.

Wright's lame arm developed on his first day in camp. It was learned, Robinson says, that the ailment was due to an injury Wright received in a handball game at Pittsburgh last November. Robinson intimates that he believes the Pittsburgh club knew of the injury and that Wright was traded for that reason.

Reports have been prevalent that Wright's arm is permanently injured, but both the shortstop and his physician, Dr. Cecil Ferguson, of Miami, deny this.

In the event Wright's arm does not respond to treatment, Robinson said, he would ask President Heydler to cancel the trade by which Petty and Riconda went to Pittsburgh.

CARRIGAN'S PROBLEM

BRADENTON, Fla., March 12.—(INS.)—Manager Bill Carrigan's biggest task this spring is not to find a good player for each position but to decide who are the best players for the various berths.

VETS RECALL EARLY DAYS ON FIELD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 12.—The gripping interest which baseball holds on veterans is exemplified in almost any player of long-standing whom you might meet, take Burleigh Grimes and Jess Petty.

You can sit and discuss Grimes' early career with the Pirates and he will give you the details, high spots and scores of those first fights of his major-league career. After leaving the Bucs, he pitched something like 10 years for the Dodgers, but in all his years he does not lose track of any unusual games.

Petty is another illustration of the reminiscent veteran. Petty claims he is just as effective, "or lucky," against righthand batters as he is against the lefthanders. Bill Terry, a southpaw batter, is his worst nightmare, while he handles the redoubtable Hornsby in a clever manner.

RUTH SQUARES PETTY

Petty can tell you practically every homer that has been made off him in his National League career. Laughingly he states "there's a lot of awful smashes that should have been homers that almost tore fences down as they rebounded to outfielders."

I asked Petty what success he had in pitching to Babe Ruth. He has opposed him on several occasions and he recounted a rather interesting experience he had with the incomparable Bambino.

"Those Yanks beat us something like 11 games in spring on way north," mused Jess. 'I worked in two or three of those scraps and was able to get past Ruth in good shape until his last time at bat in my final game. I had a check on Babe and knew that I retired him 13 times without letting him get a safety, but he gave me and Jack Fournier a shock in his fourteenth trip.'

"I had two strikes on Babe," Jess continued. "A curve outside made him foul off the ball. Although he hit one of these fouls into the rightfield stands. Anyhow, I figured that inasmuch as I had been dishing him up curves and slow pitches, I might be able to throw my fast ball by him.

FOURNIER "SCARED"

"Well, I put everything I had on it and tried to slip it past. But Babe hit that ball so hard to right field, it went through Fournier's legs before Jack could get his hands out to protect himself. Fournier was white for a moment. When he recovered he yelled at me:

"'Hey, Petty, do you want to get somebody killed out here' And all I could tell him to do was to back up and play safe."

A. A. U. TOURNEY RESUMED

KANSAS CITY, March 12.—(AP.)—Bethany College, Lindsborg, Kan., opened the second round of the National A. A. U. basketball tournament here today by defeating the Omaha Athletic Club, 39 to 23. Bethany led, 16-11, at the half.

Illinois Gymnastic Coach Goes to Mountaineers

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 12.—(AP.)—Coach Raymond C. Heidloff, of the University of Illinois, whose gymnastic team won the Big Ten championship Saturday night, has resigned to become assistant director of physical education at the University of West Virginia.

He will assume his new duties next fall.

ICEMEN OPEN TITLE ROUND TONIGHT

The big, bruising Hornets and the fast, tricky skaters of the Philadelphia Company are primed to open their three-game series for the Western Pennsylvania amateur hockey championship at Duquesne Garden tonight. The Philadelphia Company sextet qualified for the finals by finishing first in the West Penn League race, and the Hornets qualified as titular foemen last night when they held Blawnox to a 1-1 tie in the second and last of the semi-final round games. The Hornets defeated Blawnox, 5-0, in their first scrimmage, last Friday, and the series was decided on a total-goals basis.

CLOSE FIGHT LIKELY

The Hornets, as was expected, did not extend themselves in last night's fray, deeming it best to conserve their energy for the first of the "big fights" tonight. The Philadelphia Company puckmen have not participated in a game since the close of the league race, about a fortnight ago, but they have been working out regularly, and the opening gong will find both clubs in the proverbial pink of condition for the important series.

In two league meetings earlier in the season tonight's rivals broke even, each winning once by a decisive score. The Utilities skaters' win over the Hornets was extremely timely in that it was scored when the league title was the prize, and since that time the spirit of rivalry has been very bitter. Acouple fist fights were added features in their last meeting, and Hib Milks and Joe Miller, Pirate stars who are to act as referees tonight may experience some difficulty preserving peace and maintaining order.

STARS IN LINEUP

Both clubs boast veteran stars who fall little short of big league calibre and new stars who are on their way up to the big time, and the play should be skillful as well as violent. The probable lineup:

Phila. Co.		Hornets.
Brooks	G	Frazier
McGovern	D	Campbell
D. Manners	D	McCutcheon
R. Manners	F	T. Coulter
Kilrea	W	J. Coulter
Cooper	W	Martin

Philadelphia Co. spares—McCrimmon, Quinn, Adams, Luther.

Hornet spares — Deni, Baker, Mousseau, Sullivan, Malone.

Referees—Hib Milks and Joe Miller.

Hornets—1.		Blawnox—1.
Frazier	G	James
Campbell	D	Ferraro
McCutcheon	D	Brenneman
T. Coulter	C	Kelly
J. Coulter	W	Brown
Cohen	W	Martin

Referees—McCaffrey and Lafferty.

First period—Scoring: J. Coulter, 10:55. No penalties.

Second period—No scoring. No penalties.

HOMESTEAD, FIFTH MEET TOMORROW

By JESS CARVER

Unless it be that the roof fall in during the course of tonight's ball game, Bellevue or Uniontown is going to get into the final round of the W. P. I. A. L. elimination tournament, which has been taking up our time for the past two weeks.

These two upper bracketed teams have come through some gruelling competition to gain the semi-finals. Uniontown had to take New Brighton and Georges Township, a pair of tough ones, and Bellevue toppled Dunbar and highly regarded Harding High of Allquippa. On the form both have shown in the first and second round games, there is little to choose between 'em tonight.

Bellevue won both its games with sensational second half attacks, led by Ken Updegraff. This chap appears to be the only player in the tourney who can sink 'em from the middle of the floor and sink 'em consistently. He did just that in both the Dunbar and Aliquippa contests. Updegraff would be a valuable man if he did not score a point, for he is a good passer and floorman and a fine defensive star.

HELPS TEAM MORALE

But when a player is throwing that ball through the net from "out there," it's bound to perk up the morale of the rest of the club and it certainly did go a long way to carrying Bellevue through to the triumph over Harding.

Uniontown showed to good advantage in eliminating New Brighton in its first round tussle, but played ragedly against Georges Township and came close to being tossed out into the cold. Zacovic, Uniontown's ace forward, failed to play the ball of which he is capable and his being "off" made the entire team look bad.

The tremendous crowd that watched Homestead and Monessen battle a week ago Monday may be duplicated tonight, and if not, a crowd equal to the one that watched Homestead and Ford City is expected.

Tomorrow night, Fifth Avenue and Homestead clash in the lower bracket semi-final. Fifth cut out Freeport and Stowe Township in its early-round games and Homestead beat Monnessen and Freeport.

TEAMS INCONSISTENT

A strange feature of this year's tournament, which, as far as the color and attendance goes, is a great one, is the inconsistency of the competing teams. None of the ball clubs who have reached the semi-final rounds have shown much consistent basketball. Of the four, Bellevue appears to be the steadiest team. Homestead went well enough against Monessen but looked far from championship caliber against Ford City.

Uniontown shone in the New Brighton game and flopped dismally against Georges Township. Fifth defeated Stowe without causing any of the boys to look at the club through rose colored glasses and played a hit-or-miss game against Freeport last Saturday.

Bellevue looked pretty good against Dunbar and certainly was nothing ever which to weep and wail in the Harding contest. This Larry Danver may bring high right through to the title. [illegible] yards and yards of crepe around Homestead and Uniontown.

DEER STARVE TO DEATH

TITUSVILLE, Pa., March 12.—According to Field Game Supervisor W. C. Kelley, many deer have succumbed to starvation during the winter in the woods east of DuBois. Kelley has been in the mountains for the past two weeks, and upon his return stated that he found many dead carcasses of the animals.

PICKARD HOPES TO SET NEW RECORD

By JESS M. CARVER

They are tearing up the basketball floor in West Virginia's new field house, not because of the recent disastrous happenings to the Mountaineer team, but to provide a place for the pole vaulters in the coming big indoor track and field meets.

In the invitation meet to be staged there March 26, Vic Pickard, of Pitt will attempt to set a new intercollegiate record in the vault. Vic holds the present record for the field house, which he set at the recent Pitt-West Virginia dual meeting. He went 12 feet, 7 5-8 inches on that occasion.

COACHES MAY CHANGE

There may be some changes in the basketball coaching jobs in the tri-state district for next year. Carnegie Tech, Duquesne, West Virginia and Wash-Jeff may sign new mentors. Wash-Jeff is certain to.

Chick Davies is said to be after at least a two year contract at Duquesne and it has been intimated, that he will not sign unless he secures such a paper.

Al Slack reports this one, which he claims is one for the book. Babe O'Donovan of Westminster, made five points on one play against Thiel in the closing game for the Titans last week. He took the ball down the floor and popped it in and was fouled as he made the shot. He sank his first try, the second hit the rim and bounded back into his hands as he stood on the foul line and he flipped it through for another goal.

All five points were made from the foul line, for his first field goal was shot just as he reached the line.

STARS TO COMPETE

Jack Elder, Notre Dame's sprint star, is booked to participate in the West Virginia University's invitational track and field meet, March 23 and will be opposed to Pete Bowen of Pitt and likely Ken Wildermuth, of Georgetown, in the 70-yard dash. Elder tied the world record for 60 yards at a meet last Saturday.

The A. A. U. seems to have the unfortunate proclivity of getting into more jams than Heinz ever thought of. Mr. Ray Barbuti opened up when he accused the boys of handing out dough to the amateurs. All of which brings to my mind, the explanation someone once made of the difference between an amateur and a professional.

"The difference between a professional and an amateur is this—a professional will NOT take a check."

What if the boys do get a little dough? They spend their time training and preparing for meets that draw plenty of the long green at the box office. Then I suppose, they should be satisfied with those litle gold medals, which, if taken into any grocery store along with a dime, will secure a loaf of bread, provided the bread isn't 12 cents.

Aside from a few banquets for the basketball teams, there won't be anything doing in the way of college sport activity heresbouts until the opening of track season and spring football practice. Pitt will start the ball rolling in the last mentioned sport, caling its gridders out next week for a course of instruction.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(INS.)—Paavo Nurmi, great Finnish runner will race against the stopwatch and not against his leading rivals at the K. of C. games here Saturday night. The Phantom Finn, who was reinstated by the A. A. U. last Saturday, has entered the 5,000-meter race and not the current "mile of the century," featuring such distance stars as Edvin Wide, Eino Purje, Leo Lermond, Ray Conger and others.

Nurmi, refreshed by his enforced rest, believes he will shatter the records set by Willie Ritola for three miles, four miles and 5,000 meters. No stars are entered against him.

ED M'GOORTY TO SECOND VON PORAT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

An old familiar figure will be in the corner of Otto Von Porat, the Norwegian heavyweight, when he faces Tom Heeney in Chicago tonight. He will be none other than Eddie McGoorty, the erstwhile middleweight star of Oshkosh, Wis., who flourished in the days of Stanley Ketchel, Billy Papke, Jimmy Clabby and Frank Klaus, when the 160-pound division was one of the most popular in the sport.

A wise ring general and a fine second, McGoorty has been engaged to act as Von Porat's chief adviser, indicting that the men behind Von Porat are leaving no stone unturned to make the going as tough as possible for Heeney, who already has dropped a decision to Jim Maloney in his only start since losing to Gene Tunney in the latter's farewell bout last fall.

KERSTON VS. WILLIAMS

Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, has closed the second bout for his card Thursday night, which will be featured by two 10-rounders, pairing Phil Scello against Young Rudy and TNT Gibbons against Leo Kyburski. It will be between Howard Williams, Negro welterweight, of Swissvale, and George Kerston, of McKeesport. One more six-round preliminary will round out the bill.

Francis Flynn, Moose Temple promoter, will complete his card today for his show Friday night, in the main bout of which Dominick Profio, of Cecil, will make his local debut as a main-bouter against Tiger Joe Randall, Negro welterweight, of Elizabeth. He has Hughey Hagerty, of Lawrenceville, matched with Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, in his semi-final and Nat Litfin and Sammy Paris, bantamweight rivals of the Hill district, in the opening bout and needs only an opponent for Billy Deasy, Hill district lightheavyweight, to fill out his program.

LA GREY IN GARDEN

Two boxers well known to the local fans, Joey LaGrey, formerly of Johnstown, and Mule Brown, Negro, formerly of Swissvale, will box the main bout of a show in Brooklyn Thursday night, with Art de Champlain, also formerly of Johnstown, boxing Bobby Anderson in the eight-round semi-final. La Grey also is matched with Freddie Polo, of Newark, N. J., in one of the 10-round bouts on the Jimmy McLarnin-Ray Miller card at Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night of next week. Polo recently knocked out Pal Silvers and is one of the best punchers in the welterweight ranks.

CHOCOLATE IN BUFFALO

Socko Trenaman, heavyweight, of Westernport, Md., and Joe Procter, of Washington, D. C., have been matched for a 10-round bout in Cumberland next Tuesday night. Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, may meet Ben Toothman, of Baltimore, in the semi-final.

A benefit smoker, featured by boxing bouts, will be held next Sunday afternoon in Forrester's Hall, Lawrenceville, for Leo Holson, who recently lost a leg due to poisoning. The sole support of his mother and blind sister, Holson is in dire need of aid and a committee of prominent men is behind the benefit in the hope of making it a big success. Tom Bowler will arrange the bouts.

The Frenchy Belanger-Izzy Schwartz bout in Toronto, originally slated for last night, will be fought tonight instead. Belanger is a slight favorite to win.

WATROUS, SMITH ELIMINATED AT MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., March 12.—(AP.)—Hard pressed to the sixteenth green of their afternoon round by a pair of determined Englishmen, Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen, defending champions, in the sixth annual International four-ball match, eliminated their opponents after Farrell had made his iron shots count for a pair of birdies and two resultant holes. The match went to Farrell and Sarazen, 3 and 2.

Ed Dudley, Los Angeles, and Al Espinosa, Chicago, turned in a 2-and-1 victory after repulsing a determined threat on the afternoon homeward trip by Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills, L. I., and Miami Beach, and Tommy Kerrigan, Mount Vernon, N. Y.

MACFARLANE-HAMPTON WIN

Willie Macfarlane, former open champion, and Harry Hampton, Chicago, drove their way to a 5-and-2 victory over the Canadian representatives, Charley Murray, Montreal, and Dave Spittal, Toronto.

One of the day's upsets came when Tommy Armour, Washington, former open champion, walked to the clubhouse with Wild Bill Mehlhorn, of New York, defeated 3 and 2 by Clarence Hackney, Atlantic City, and Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J.

The defeat of Al Watrous and Horton Smith, 21-year-old Ryder Cup team member, furnished the day's major upset. The pair lost, 2 and 1, to Charley Mayo, of Flushing, L. I., former champion of France and Belgium, and George Christ, of Rochester, N. Y.

DIEGEL-HAGEN COP

Mike Brady, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Cyril Walker, another former open champion, were victims of Johnny Golden, Paterson, N. J., Ryder Cup team member, and Billy Burke, N. Y., 5 and 4.

Leo Diegel, P. G. A. champion, and Walter Hagen, British open champion, the seeded team of the lower bracket, took an easy 6-4 match from Eddie Williams, Cleveland, and Wilfred Reid, Detroit.

Farrell and Sarazen meet Espinosa and Dudley in the upper bracket today and Macfarlane and Hampton play Hockney and Wood.

In the lower bracket, Mayo and Christ meet Turnesa and Cuici, with Hagen and Diegel playing Golden and Burke.

LOCAL BOOTERS TO MEET ARKON

By TOM BIRKS

Manager Balsarini, of the Heidelberg club, received notice last evening from Secretary McEwan, of the national amateur cup committee, that the Heidelberg-Akron Goodyear fourth round national amateur cup game will be played at Heidelberg next Saturday.

This is quite a concession from the national body, so the second appearance of the Akron boys in Pittsburgh this season should attract a capacity crowd. The game was originally scheduled for last Sunday, but opposition developed and the home club was forced to cancel the game.

Earlier in the season the Goodyear club eliminated Dunlevy in the national open by a 3-goals-to-2 score at Dunlevy after extra periods had been played. In the Rubber Town team Pittsburghers will see one of the flashiest soccer clubs that has appeared here in many years. Two former Pittsburghers, Timmons, the goalkeeper, and Robertson, the center forward, are in the lineup.

MILLER REINSTATED

NEW YORK, March 12.—(INS.)—The last obstacle to the Jimmy McLarnin-Ray Miller bout here, March 22, had been removed today following the reinstatement of Miller by the New York State Athletic Commission. The Chicagoan had been under suspension here for five months for failure to go through with a bout with Lope Tenorio in Brooklyn.

A. A. A. Officials Congratulate Segrave

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(AP.)—Congratulations to Major H. O. D. Segrave for setting a new straight-away automobile speed record at Daytona Beach, Fla., has been wired by the officers and directors of the American Automobile Association.

The message expressed pleasure that the "tremendous speed" was maintained with no ill-effects to Segrave and termed the accomplishment a "victory won for England."

The contest board of the A. A. A. officiated at the record attempt.

SEGRAVE IS NOT SATISFIED WITH NEW RECORD

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 12.—(AP.)—Major H. O. D. Seagrave is not satisfied with the world speed record he set here yesterday afternoon, and contemplates trying to set it higher, whatever the outcome of J. M. White's attempt in his triplex today. The announcement is contrary to another announcement he made just after he had completed the record-breaking run.

The British driver, now holding the automobile straight-away record for the second time, said, however, that conferences with Captain Irving, designer of the Golden Arrow racer, would be necessary before he could announce definitely whether he would attempt another record.

He said he felt sure the Golden Arrow was capable of 240 miles an hour, nearly nine miles an hour faster than the record he set, and that he probably would have made faster time had his mechanicians not "talked me out of" putting discs over the racer's wheels. The mechanicians, he said, feared the effect of a sudden gust of side wind on the discs at high speed.

The driver said he did not believe the Ocean Speedway here would do for speeds much higher than 240 miles an hour, because of poor visibility due to the mist of breakers and lack of enough length for the requisite running start.

WRIGHT, KUCERA WIN SWIM CROWNS

William J. Wright, former University of Pittsburgh swimming captain, wearing the insignia of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, was crowned senior A. M. A., A. A. U., 100-yard free style champion last night in the Natatorium pool, succeeding Allan Cross, of the Erie Y. M. C. A.

Cross forced the going all of the way, and while Wright did not set a record, his time of 58 4-5 seconds was considered very good. In the final stretch the new champion copped with about three feet to spare.

The senior A. M. A., A. A. U. fancy diving crown was successfully defended by Betty Kucera of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. Ida May Halstead, of the Willows pool, was second and Jane Layton, of Oliver, was third. The field in this competition was rather small.

The 240-yard relay was captured by Duquesne Library's team. The victory resulted following a generous handicap.

SKIBOS RECEIVE CITY TROPHY

The Carnegie Tech football team, winner of the city championship last winter as a result of its victory over Pitt, was presented the city trophy by President of City Council James F. Malone at a dinner given the Skibos in the P. A. A. last night. Howard Harpster, captain of the 1928 Skibos, received the trophy.

Among the speakers were Frank J. Lanahan, Howard Harpster, Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Tech; Graduate Manager Clarence Overend, Coach Bob Waddell, James F. Malone, the Rev. Father C. A. Sanderbeck, Dr. C. Wallace Petty and T. P. Gaylord, Graduate Manager John Holohan and Coach Elmer Layden of Duquesne attended.

Women Free Plan Adopted by Angeles

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—(INS.)—J. H. Patrick, president of the Los Angeles baseball team, announced today that the Angels would pay to the Coast League a small percentage of the price lost by the admission of women free to Wrigley Field during the coming season. The amount stipulated for each woman was 3½ cents. This sum will be turned over to the league, however, and the visiting clubs will not receive a cut.

Tilden and Hunter Not in Tourney

NEW YORK, March 12.—(INS.)—Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, the leading net aces of the United States, will not compete in the National Indoor Tennis championships, which start here Saturday.

Word to that effect was brought to the United States Lawn Tennis Association today as the list of the entries for the championship came in from all parts of the East and the middle West.

Long's Sport Comment

that he has kept himself in pretty good shape and that if he eventually decides to return to the ring he can do so without any great trouble.

"I weigh exactly 206 pounds," Dempsey confided to Ed Hughes, "and I feel great. I could get in fighting trim without difficulty if I wanted to do so. It's simple. I eat well, and generally what I want, but never to excess. For instance, sometimes I go two or three days without much of anything. I nibble on a cigar now and then, but a few of them don't hurt; in fact, they add to your contentment."

George Godfrey

IT has been generally believed that if Dempsey comes back it will be in a bout with Jack Sharkey, but the former champion isn't taking the expected business tack of boosting the sailor man. "I think Stribling is the better man of the two, even though he didn't win," Dempsey declared. "Didn't Sharkey look good to you?" he was asked. "Not so much. I don't think he's the fighter he once was—not as good as when he met me, anyhow." "Don't you think he's the best of the lot now?" "No, I don't." "Who then?" "Why, George Godfrey. I think Godfrey would knock Sharkey out. That colored fellow is good, and say, don't they all know it?"

Lewis Throws Russian Who Tosses Ref

CHICAGO, March 12.—(INS.)—Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former world heavyweight wrestling champion, today held a referee's decision over Kola Kwariana, the giant Russian grappler.

The pair wrestled for two hours at the Coliseum last night without either being able to score a deciding fall. Lewis, however, was awarded the decision on one fall he achieved with a toe hold in 1:33:57.

Kola gave the 4,500 spectators a treat when he became a little too ambitious and tossed both Lewis and the referee, Ted Tonneman, out of the ring.

M'MAHANS WIN CITY JUNIOR TITLE

The Red McMahan Club, of the South Side, captured the city junior championship at the South Side Market House last night when they defeated the Lou Gordons, of the Hill district, for the second straight time. The score was 32 to 30.

The Gordons won the championship of the junior class in the recent A. A. U. tournament. The two straight victories over the Gordons enabled the South Siders to avenge a setback they received at the hands of the Gordons last winter, when the Hill district passers defeated them in two out of three games.

The McMahans were entered in the A. A. U. tournament, but were eliminated when they were late in making their appearance in Sharpsburg to meet the Penn Cadets. In the first game with the Gordons an extra period was necessary to decide the winner, while last night the McMahans staged a rally in the last period to gain the verdict. Jesko was the leading scorer for the winners, while Pratt and Levine played best for the losers. The lineup:

McMahans—32.		Gordons—30.
Jesko	F	Sakolsky
Huddy	F	Kalson
Mason	C	Shiew
Saverhies	G	Newston
Sherman	G	Levine

Substitutions—McMahans: Deery, Lenwin, Bowen, Fiser, Pratt; Roley, Field goals—Jesko 4, Bowen 3, Sherman 3, Deery, Saverkies, Pratt 2, Levine 5, Sakolsky 2, Kalson, Wishnew. Fouls—McMahans, 8 out o 14; Gordons, 10 out of 15. Referee—Leo Mackey.

Australians Gain In Cricket Match

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 12.—(AP.)—Australia batted all day today in the fifth test match against England and lost two more wickets, those of W. M. Woodfull and J. H. Ryder, to make its score at the close of the day's play, 367 runs for the loss of four wickets. England's first innings score was 519.

Bradman, young Australian player, made his second test match century, being 109, not out, at close of play. Woodfull had reached 102 when caught by Geary off Larwood's bowling. Ryder, the Australian captain, was out for 30 runs.

TAMAQUA GOES AHEAD

LANSFORD, Pa., March 12.—(AP.)—Tamaqua High School, champions of the Anthracite League, defeated Stroudsburg High, Lehigh Valley League winners, 34-33, in a District No. 1, P. I. A. A., elimination game here last night.

JIM BRADDOCK HANGS KAYO ON SLATTERY

NEW YORK, March 12.—(INS.)—James J. Braddock, slender slugger of Jersey City, stood in the front rank of the contenders for Tommy Loughran's light-heavyweight crown today by virtue of his technical knockout of Jimmy Slattery, clever Buffalo boxer, in the ninth round of their scheduled 10-round go at Madison Square Garden last night.

It was the old story of the boxer versus the slugger. During the early rounds, Slattery weaved and boned his way around Braddock. The Jersey boy battered Slattery in the sixth and had him hanging on the ropes at the end of the seventh. The Buffalo fighter managed to weather the storm in the eighth session, but collapsed in the ninth under a rain of blows.

FINISH IN NINTH

As soon as the ninth round started, Braddock rushed Slattery to a neutral corner and staggered him with a smashing right to the chin. He landed a hail of punches, with Slattery covering up his head with crossed arms. The Buffalo boy took a count of five and then referee Lou Magnolia stopped the fight after 1 minute 12 seconds of the round had elapsed.

It was the third time Slattery had been knocked out. Dave Shade and Paul Berlenbach were the only other sluggers to stop him. The Buffalo boy was a 5-to-2 favorite to beat Braddock, and odds of 5 to 1 had been laid that the Jersey fighter would not knock out his opponent.

Tommy Freeman, Cleveland middleweight, won the decision over Alf Roos, of Spain, in the opening 10-round match. Freeman weighed 153½ and Roos 149½.

ROSENBLOOM WINS

Maxie Rosenbloom, New York light heavyweight, slapped out a decision over Osk Till, lanky Buffalo boxer, in a 10-rounder. The weights were Rosenbloom, 170½; Till, 161½.

Maloney, Schmeling To Box in Boston

BOSTON, March 12.—(INS.)—Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, will be the first opponent of Max Schmeling, German heavyweight champion, when the latter returns to this country.

This announcement was made today after a long-distance telephone agreement between William F. Carey, of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, New York, and Eddie Mack, matchmaker for the Boston Garden.

Meanwhile, another bout in the heavyweight elimination series was talked of—a battle between Jack Sharkey and Paulino. This affair would take place in Yankee Stadium, New York.

Women Free Plan Adopted by Angeles

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—(INS.)—J. H. Word to that effect was brought to the United States Lawn Tennis Association today as the list of the entries for the championship came in from all parts of the East and the middle West.

PITT BOOKED BY FORDHAM

NEW YORK, March 12.—(INS.)—The demand for a longer and more difficult basketball schedule, including more of the real contenders for the eastern intercollegiate title than the schedules of the last few years have listed, has at last been heeded by the athletic authorities at Fordham University. A game with Pittsburgh has been tentatively listed for February 3, 1930, at the Fordham gymnasium, and negotiations are pending for a game with Dartmouth as well.

Maloney, Schmeling To Box in Boston

BOSTON, March 12.—(INS.)—Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, will be the first opponent of Max Schmeling, German heavyweight champion, when the latter returns to this country.

This announcement was made today after a long-distance telephone agreement between William F. Carey, of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, New York, and Eddie Mack, matchmaker for the Boston Garden.

SMOKE TALKS by the DUTCH MASTERS

Here's a riddle no real cigar lover will ever be able to answer. When a man hates the taste of tobacco so much that he has it wrapped in paper and then smokes it through an amber tube—why does he bother about smoking at all?

Many a man, who has about given up looking for happiness at the end of the rainbow, finds contentment at last at the end of a good Dutch Masters.

To the ladies: One reason a man is so fond of his club is that they almost ask him to drop his cigar ashes on the rug.

We don't believe that there is a milder cigar made than Dutch Masters. But it takes a lot more than mere mildness to make a man, who has "tried 'em all," agree with us that Dutch Masters really is "fine as any imported cigar."

Tune in the DUTCH MASTERS MINSTRELS

Every Tuesday Evening at 9.30 Eastern Time—8.30 Central Time, Station WJZ, New York, and Associated N. B. C. Stations Station KDKA, Pittsburgh

Luxuries Have Prospered; Necessities' Turn Coming

—By B. C. FORBES—

SO-CALLED luxury industries and stocks have led prosperity throughout the country and on the stock exchange. Will necessity industries and necessity stocks next have their inning?

CHANGE is a law of business as of life. Neither winds nor tides move constantly in one direction, nor does any nation's business always progress uniformly. Nations themselves, like their industrial conditions, have their ups and downs, their fat years and their lean years, their spells of prosperity and their spells of depression.

So vast is our own continent that never are all sections of it enjoying equal prosperity, always some sections are experiencing poor times even when the nation as a whole is enjoying good times. That is exactly what we see today.

MOST humans have short memories. We like to forget that which was unpleasant and we like to contemplate a pleasant future. Our wishes oftentimes bias our reasoning, we assure ourselves that a thing will turn out thus and so because we ardently hope it will.

Such has been the prosperity enjoyed by buyers of popular stocks, and such has been the measure of prosperity enjoyed by the country as a whole. That there has developed a disposition to assume that conditions will not change, except for the better. Probably never before in our history was this optimistic, confident attitude more general or more pronounced.

THE innate faith and cheerfulness of the American people are admirable characteristics. Without them the nation could not have attained its present status.

YET our optimism and confidence should never be permitted to blind realities. One reality as inexorable as day and night is that prosperity always tends to bring its own undoing and that adversity tends to bring its own cure.

LOOK what is now happening in the stock market. Unexampled advances in quotations fostered speculation in unexampled volume. The wider and keener the demand became for stocks, the higher prices rose.

Then, not content to invest only their actual savings, their cash on hand or in the bank, hundreds and hundreds of thousands of individuals, having tasted the joy of "making" money without any effort, took to buying more stocks than they could pay for. They or their brokers had to borrow the unpaid balance.

So widespread has this practice become that brokers' loans have increased four billions of dollars in the last three years. This loanable money has been drawn from the farthest corners of the earth by using that irresistible magnet, the highest interest rates offered by any financial center.

This constantly-expanding borrowing and these unmatched interest rates—7¾ per cent for Wall Street time loans and 10 per cent and higher for call loans—have lately threatened to bring about the undoing of the stock market's vaulting prosperity. Within the last three months several spasms of acute weakness, causing losses to many marginal buyers, have been experienced. Nor is it by any means certain that no more spasms lie ahead.

WHAT of industry?

The most prosperous industries have been those logically benefited by general prosperity. There has been far greater buying than there ever was in the past of things not actually essential to daily existence. Indeed, so unusually large a proportion of the peoples' income has been spent for luxuries and comforts not widely indulged in before this current period of prosperity set in that industries supplying the necessities of life have suffered, some of them seriously.

But, pondering the eternal law of change, may it not be well to consider whether it would not be wise to be prepared should a change come?

IS IT natural, for instance, to figure that the cotton industry will never have a revival? Or the woolen industry? Is it logical to assume that the oil industry will never be able to overcome the chaos which has long afflicted it? Is not the shoe industry likely to get back to a prosperous state sooner or later? The sugar industry has suffered from the lowest prices in years; but will no change for the better ever come? Even agriculture, the most complicated, many-sided and internationally-influenced of all our industries, will doubtless overcome most of its prosperity obstacles by and by.

Why enumerate further?

INSTEAD of excitedly climbing for shares of companies depending upon prosperity spending, why would it not be prudent to cast an anchor to windward by investing at least part of our funds in industries whose earnings are helped rather than hurt when people pull in their saving horns and begin to practice frugality and economy? Depressed industries will not forever remain depressed.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Advance

Wall Street Quotations

STOCK PRICES SOAR AFTER HESITATING

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—Lowering of the call money rate from 7 to 6 per cent and a further advance in domestic copper prices to 20 cents a pound provided the background for a general advance in prices in today's stock market after an opening period of irregularity. Trading was relatively light in volume, indicating that many traders and investors preferred to stay out of the market until current uneasiness over the credit situation had disappeared.

The drop in call money was attributed to the temporary employment by banks here of the large surplus of funds accumulated in preparation for the heavy mid-month disbursements and federal income tax payments. Time money ruled firm around 7½ per cent with little money available below that figure.

Wall Street expects an increase in the New York Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate either this week or next. It was reported that a large short interest had been built up in expectation of the higher rate, and that the rally today represented the driving in of over-extended "shorts" in some of the volatile issues.

Public utilities were in the forefront of the early afternoon rally. One block of 15,600 shares of Pacific Gas and Electric changed hands at 55¼, or ¾, followed by an advance which wiped out the early loss. American Express jumped 8½ points; American Railway Express 4¼ and Electric Power and Light, American and Foreign Power and Western Union sold 2½ to 3½ points higher.

Radio (new stock), which is now traded in against the delivery of actual certificates, again changed hands in large volume, climbing 3 points. The old stock, which will disappear from the list a week from Friday, jumped 10 points.

Coppers moved forward under the leadership of Anaconda, Chile and Kennecott, all of which sold 3 to 4 points above last night's closing quotations. Rossia Insurance soared nearly 9 points to a new high at 277¾, and Foundation Company moved up 4¾ to a new top at 59¾. Allis Chalmers, National Cash Register, Union Carbide and A. M. Byers sold 3 to 5 points higher.

There were a few soft spots. Case Threshing Machine broke 16 points to a new low for the year at 435 and Victor Talking Machine sold nearly 7 points lower.

WESTINGHOUSE BREAKS ALL RECORDS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company broke all previous records in both sales and earnings in 1928. As a result, it ended the year in a stronger financial position than ever before and since January 1 it has completely freed itself of funded debt.

Net income for 1928 after all charges was $20,814,940, which was $2,700,000 more than the previous record and was equivalent to $8.78 a share on the 2,370,063 shares of combined common and preferred stock. This compares with $15,639,172 or $6.59 a share in the year ended March 31, 1928. The company has changed the time for terminating its fiscal year from March 31 to December 31, so that the two reports overlap for a period of three months.

The company's sales in the entire year of 1928 totaled $189,050,302 against $175,456,815 in the preceding fiscal year.

THE outstanding development in the Westinghouse operations in recent years has been the continued effort to reduce costs. The results of this can be seen in the fact that net income for the nine months ended December 31, 1928 was $16,695,705. This was $1,056,533 more than in the entire 12 months ended March 31, 1928. The increase was accomplished in spite of the fact that sales billed in the nine months were $144,432,879 or $31,023,936 less than in the preceding 12 months.

The combined common and preferred stocks are taken in figuring per share earnings, since the preferred stock shares equally with the common after both classes of stock have received $3.50 a share in dividends in a year. At present both classes are being paid $4 a share annually. Any future increase in the rate on the common stock must be accompanied by a corresponding increase in the preferred dividend.

NO LARGE expenditures were made for new plant facilities in 1928 and, since earnings were over twice dividend requirements, the current financial position was greatly strengthened during the nine months between March 31 and December 31. Working capital was increased $11,775,513 to a total of $118,717,937.

Current assets of $135,679,223 were practically eight times current liabilities. Cash amounted to $17,165,199 and call and time loans and government securities totaled $28,697,687. Either of these individual items was greater than the current liabilities of $16,961,286.

The calling of $30,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds at 105 on March 1 did not cut into the strength of current assets. The proceeds of the sale of 296,252 shares of new common stock at $105 a share provided the necessary funds for the bond retirement. This stock was offered to stockholders of record of January 7 to the extent of one new share for each eight shares of common or preferred stock held. The issue will increase the total amount of outstanding common stock to 2,586,341 shares. The preferred stock amounts to 79,974 shares.

THE surplus was increased $10,157,046 to $67,089,244 during the nine months. Another large increase in surplus will be shown in the next balance sheet as a result of the sale of the new stock. This has a par value of $50 a share so that, unless some other means of accounting is followed, the sale of each share will add $55 to surplus.

The large surplus of cash shown by the last balance sheet suggests the possibility that an increased return may be given to stockholders if earnings continue at their present rate.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 12. — The curb market after a heavy opening and considerable irregularity in the first two hours of trading steadied at midday under buying orders attracted by the drop in the call money rate to 6 per cent. Many of the earlier declines were either reduced or wiped out.

Utilities were constantly under pressure in the morning session and losses ranged from 2 to 5 points. Electric Bond and Share issues were firm as stockholders went into session to ballot on the merger of Electric Bond and Share Company and Electric Bond and Share Securities Corporation.

Aviation shares were heavy, in the face of reports of large orders from Mexico, extensions of commercial routes and rumors of new consolidations. Fokker, which was reported to have passed under the control of Aviation Corporation, new $35,000,000 holding company, yielded 3 points in the early trading. Automotive stocks declined, Ford of Canada losing more than 10 points of its yesterday's advance.

In the mining group, Anaconda Copper rights were heavily bought at around 29 as the price of copper was advanced to 20 cents. Newmont after a sharp decline to 212¼ rallied 4 points.

Oils sold off fractionally.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

BUGS BAER Says

BAD DEBTS FOR THE COMMUNITY CHEST

ONCE again we are saturated with asterisks and bracketed with advice by the big telegraph companies.

This time they polish us up on the possibilities of collecting bad debts by telegram.

"Bugs" Baer

There is no doubt that a telegram commands attention. Postcards are merely souvenirs, telephone calls go into the booth and out the other ear, letters are filed like meat on the hook.

But the telegram is a combination fire alarm and taxi horn. You leap out of danger. Each jump carries you further away from the collector.

1. You have just taken a bath in red ink. Please remit.

2. Sue me.

3. How would you like to have your face caught in our cash register?

4. Never remind a man of a bad debt. It makes it worse.

5. Have been very patient. How would you like to be one?

6. Nobody here by that name.

7. You must be the golfer who invented the overlapping grip on a dime.

8. My memory is very Woolworth. It starts at five and stops at 10.

9. Closing books for audit. Must take sharp action.

10. Drop a dollar in a barrel and I will be the first man to crawl through the bunghole.

11. Account overdue. It has been for years.

12. Just about to celebrate my golden bankrptcy anniversary.

13. Further delay impossible. Either pay or return the bicycle.

14. Yours of the eleventh received and contents duly ignored.

15. Must have that money by twentieth of month or we will tear things up.

16. You had better tear up the calendar.

17. Your check was returned marked No Funds.

18. So was your telegram.

19. Please mail check for your account dated 1861.

20. I am a business man. Not a historian.

All of which indicates that the best way to collect bad debts is call individually and leave in a body. Never send a telegram on a first's errand.

BY THE MARRIAGE OF HORACE KLOTZ TO THE WOMAN WHO WAS AT ONE TIME THE WIFE OF BARNEY GOOGLE, FATE HAS FORMED ANOTHER TRIANGLE, A TRIANGLE THAT THREATENS TO RUIN THE HAPPINESS OF ALL THREE.

MRS. KLOTZ, BY HER RIGHTS AS A CITIZEN CALLED UPON THE "ENOCH ARDEN LAW" TO RELEASE HER FROM THE TIES THAT BOUND HER TO A MAN SHE BELIEVED DEAD AND MARRIED AGAIN. AS WAS HER PRIVILEGE. BUT SHE RECKONED WITHOUT FATE, THE MASTER JOKESTER, WHO CONTRIVED TO BRING ABOUT THE REAPPEARANCE OF HER FORMER HUSBAND AT A MOST EMBARRASSING TIME - HORSEFACE KLOTZ, NOW HUSBAND OF BARNEY GOOGLE'S FORMER WIFE, DOES NOT KNOW THAT AT ONE TIME SHE AND BARNEY WERE MARRIED AND IF HE KNEW, IT WOULD PERHAPS CLOUD THE FUTURE HE THOUGHT WOULD BE SO SUNNY.

IN VIEW OF THESE FACTS NEITHER BARNEY NOR MRS. K. WISHES TO TELL BUT THE QUESTION ARISES, AS IT HAS SO OFTEN BEFORE IN OTHER TRIANGLES - IS IT RIGHT TO RUIN THE HAPPINESS OF ANOTHER WHEN ONE HAS NOTHING TO GAIN BY SO DOING, OR SHOULD ONE TELL BECAUSE THE TRUTH, NO MATTER HOW PAINFUL, SHOULD BE TOLD, NO MATTER WHAT THE CONSEQUENCES?

Recently a delegation, headed by Mr. Arthur Ceasar, of the Near East Relief Committee, called and placed the proposition in writing.

Metro Charter Is Based On Citizens' Suggestions

Paramount in the consideration of the Metropolitan Charter bill, which goes before the General Assembly this week, is the desideratum that it fulfill the wishes of the people, as expressed in the vote on the constitutional amendment, and that it be consummated in time to permit Pittsburgh to get into its proper rank among cities in the 1930 census.

This can be done providing it pass the legislature without amendment of the article requiring that it be submitted to the voters on the fourth Tuesday of June, 1929, that is, June 25, with the further proviso that the citizens approve it. After the legislature finishes work on the charter it must be adopted by a majority of voters of the county, this majority to include two-thirds of all the electors in more than half of the cities, boroughs and townships.

It is stated that the plan of procedure contemplated now is to hold a public hearing on the charter bill in Harrisburg. This will give opponents as well as supporters of various provisions of the measure opportunity to be heard. The better hearing, however, will be reflected in the judgment of citizens, representatives of whom already have expressed their desires which are included in the tentative charter.

For weeks the Metropolitan Plan Commission was seated in Pittsburgh for the purpose of hearing suggestions as to what should be included in the charter. It is to be presumed that the instrument submitted to Governor Fisher by the commission is the sum of these suggestions, shaped in conformity with the provisions of the constitutional amendment. The suggestions of professional politicians could have been received here as well as at a public hearing in Harrisburg.

It should be remembered the commission itself, in its membership, represents all of the cities in Allegheny county, as well as the boroughs and townships, although it does not have a representative from every place. Each of these men likely holds the forward view of his own community, besides which they are men of prominence, including engineers, merchants, professional men and legislators.

The thought intended to be suggested is that they are men of character and training and experience sufficient to assure that they can be depended upon to do just as good a job of charter making as a politically colored legislature.

Public Will Commend Court Rebuke of Forney

An attorney representing Alfred W. Forney, slot machine king, asked for postponement of criminal trial, stating that his client was ill in a New York hotel. Judge James B. Drew, in telephone conversation with the hotel manager, learned that Forney was not in the hotel and was not ill when he departed from it last week.

Judge Drew stated that he was not surprised—that the situation represented the usual course in such cases. His condemnation of the act was forcible and justified.

The public will commend Judge Drew, because the public, well as the court, is thoroughly disgusted with the ease with so many gangsters appear to escape punishment. It sizes with the court in its wrath about the brazen lib. ttempted to be taken with the law.

No Revolution Wanted

In Quebec a stick of powerful dynamite with a half-burned fuse attached was found in the office of Premier Taschereau. Bad News.

In Havana eight men are arrested, accused of a plot to assassinate President Machado. Worse news.

The alleged plan of the conspirators was to get rid of Cuba's able president, precipitate a state of revolution and chaos, and ask the United States to take charge of Cuba on the ground that Cuba is not able to govern herself.

's intelligent men and women are well able to govern country. And this country, having bestowed on iom from Spain, has no desire to undo that friendly act.

Cuba as part of the United States, would increase gigantically in wealth by attaining untaxed access to our sugar market.

But no good Cuban would exchange self-government for profit however great.

The problem that should interest the United States is promotion of Cuba's prosperity, WITHOUT interference with Cuba's independence.

American industrialists and capitalists might help Cuba and themselves by establishing great sugar refineries in Cuba, on a basis of good wages, and, with sufficient shipping, gaining for Cuba's sugar plantations as much as possible of the world's market for refined sugar.

Chicago Woman Says Men Are Like Street Cars.

Leningrad claims the speed record for marriage. A youth and maid were married there by a Soviet official in five minutes. They returned in 15 minutes and in five more minutes obtained a divorce. The 15 minutes of married life were devoted to a quarrel over where the couple should live.

Myrtle Richards, of Chicago, sued her seventh husband for divorce. All his predecessors are living. Tales That Are Told

She Hoped So

LITTLE Lucy had been to see cousins across the way; when leaving the house she suddenly noticed a picture of two angels hanging on the well.

"Do all angels wear white clothes?" she asked her aunt, who was seeing her out.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Well," said little Lucy, "I hope they've a better laundry in heaven than we send our things to!"

Successful!

FOR the nature lesson the teacher brought in a glass bowl containing a goldfish. This she placed in a prominent position on her table.

"Now," she began, turning to the class, "can anyone tell me what a goldfish is?"

There was no immediate reply. After a pause, however, a little girl put up her hand.

"I know, teacher," she said brightly. "It's a sardine that's got very rich."

Couldn't Be Done

AN eminent physician who held the greatest opinion of the effect of cheerfulness on ailing persons was remonstrating with a particularly downcast patient.

"You must drive away this dull depression," he said. "Practice cheerfulness at every opportunity and we shall soon see you on the road to recovery."

But his patient was not easily convinced.

"It's all very well to talk," he grumbled. "Sing at my work, indeed! I wonder how you think I am going to do that?"

"Why can't you?" asked the doctor.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE'S some advantages for a guy that lives in town and owns a farm away up in the country. Lots of stock market speculators are doing that way now. They find it very invigorating to go up to the farm over the week-end and find out what has happened to the apple crop. You see, the apple crop got a squeeze, and the juice undergoes certain changes.

Mr. Crumpacks had a farm in the country, in upstate New York, with lots of apple trees, and the apples all got to be applejack. So one week-end just lately the boss went out to see the farm, and stayed over Saturday and Sunday, with a couple of his friends. He went out in the dark Sunday night to show his two friends his fine stable of genuine early American horses, but he led the boys accidentally into the cow barn instead of the horse stable. He fumbled around a while and then he called his farmer in a loud voice. When the poor farmer got there, Crumpacks was sitting on the floor in front of the cows with his friends.

"See here," he says to the farmer, "what have you been doing to my horses?"

"Why, nothing."

"Yes you ain't been doing nothing! You've ruined 'em! One of 'em mooed at me just now, and two of 'em is wearing horns!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

BECAUSE of his love of beauty and his friendliness to men, Edward Bok has given the exquisite Singing Tower to the people of America.

"THE MATERIAL PROSPERITY OF OUR NATION WILL BE OF LITTLE AVAIL UNLESS IT IS TRANSLATED INTO A SPIRITUAL PROSPERITY," HE SAID. "FROM THE RAW MATERIALS A NATION HAS BEEN CREATED AND NOW THE GREAT BODY OF PEOPLE ARE SUFFICIENTLY RELIEVED FROM THE PRESSING NECESSITIES OF EXISTENCE TO GIVE SOME THOUGHT TO THE ART OF LIVING."

Those words should inspire the American spirit. THEY SHOULD ALSO HUMBLE IT.

We are a rich and powerful nation, but we are singularly poor in that rarest of treasures—a knowledge of beauty.

We surpass all other peoples in knowing how to MAKE a living—

But we are pathetically ignorant of how to enjoy that living after we have made it.

We are almost as limited in our idea of the art of living as jungle savages.

We watch shows as they watch shows.

We travel about.

But we see very little as we travel about.

If the sunset is sufficiently lurid, or the flowers sufficiently profuse, we notice them with the same crude enjoyment with which we notice the electric signs on Broadway. But we know nothing of that deep, quiet love of beauty which prompts the Japanese, for example, to organize grave pilgrimages to witness the blossoming of one cherry tree.

An amazing spirit of romance and advantage flows through American business, but we have, as yet, no national art.

The plumbers are putting golden enamel in our bathrooms. It is time we began to put a little golden enamel on our souls.

FOR EVERY AMERICAN WHO GAZES REVERENTLY UPON MR. BOK'S SINGING TOWER THERE ARE FIVE THOUSAND OTHERS WHO WILL STREW ITS BASE WITH EGG SHELLS, COMIC SUPPLEMENTS AND GINGER ALE BOTTLES.

And it isn't because we're too young and haven't had time to get around to it.

No, the plain and ugly truth is that we have been and still are too greedy for wealth to give thought to beauty. And it's time somebody took a fall out of us and told us what's what.

President Coolidge did, but he was so polite that most of us won't appreciate it as such. We are so complacently sure that we Americans are 100 per cent in all possible attainments. Well, we're not. When it comes to beauty we're pretty nearly 100 per cent—MINUS.

"Time to learn the art of living"—I'll say!

A CELESTIAL FLIRT

By Garrett P. Serviss

THERE is an exciting love chase now nearing its end in the sky I speak of love as it may be supposed to manifest itself among the planetary deities. The chief actor, or actress, naturally, is Venus, and I regret to say that Newton's unsympathetic law of gravitation dooms her heart to be broken once more.

The thing began to attract attention among the spheres last December, when Venus, emerging from her periodical entanglement with the god of day, commenced brightening herself up in the western heavens after sunset. Jupiter having shaken off Mars, was lording it after the usual jovial fashion in the high sky with Aries, the Ram. Then Venus, coming up the western slope, caught sight of him on his lofty throne, and began to quicken her pace. But, nothwithstanding his reputation in high Olympus, Jove fled eastward as fast as he could. But he is always a handsome as well as a majestic eyeful, particularly to so queenly and adoring an entity as Venus, and her pursuing feet twinkled brighter and brighter as she drew each night a little nearer.

Things looked promising until a shadow was cast upon her hopes by her arrival, about February 7, at her position of "greatest elongation from the sun." It was a chase in right ascension, and, while her speed was still far more rapid than that of unappreciative Jupiter, the sun was thundering up behind her faster than she could go and threatening to swallow her up in his blinding rays from the sight of Jupiter and Mars and all the rest.

She was then about 21 degrees of right ascension behind her chase. But if she couldn't better her pace, at least it was still much swifter than his, and she began to adorn herself wonderfully until she attracted universal attention, even from the sometimes rather dull-eyed inhabitants of the earth. Her lamp of love flamed above the sunset in the closing February evenings with a light of irresistible fascination.

At the opening of the present month she was still gaining, and growing brighter, too. On the first of March she had diminished the separation to only about a dozen degrees. Everybody then noticed the drawing together of those two remarkable lights in the sky, and not a few took the trouble to learn that the brightest one was the twin sister of the earth, while the other was the mightiest of the planets, equal in mass to all the rest together.

The approach will be still closer, and the sight will increase the beauty. On March 15 Venus will attain her greatest brightness—a splendor as if a hole had been pierced in the dome of the sky to let through the supernal radiance of the higher heavens. By that time she will be only seven and a half degrees behind Jupiter in right ascension. She will advance into Aries whilst he retreats toward Taurus. But about the 20th, when the distance will have diminished to six and a half degrees, the chase will be over and the glorious queen of love will confess her failure, while the great lord of her desire stalks onward in the zodiac. For several days, however, as with an effort of despair, she will all but keep pace with him. But at last, swinging rapidly in between the earth and the sun, she will be swallowed up in the solar splendor, only to re-emerge in the morning sky, there to resume her endless woolngs which can have no surcease as long as the law of gravitation holds the solar system intact.

Bible Passages

"The Lord Is Good"

(Lamentations 3: 22-36)

IT IS of the Lord's mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions fail not.

They are new every morning: great is thy faithfulness.

The Lord is my portion, saith my soul; therefore will I hope in him.

The Lord is good unto them that wait for him, to the soul that seeketh him.

It is good that a man should both hope and quietly wait for the salvation of the Lord.

It is good for a man that he bear the yoke in his youth.

He sitteth alone and keepeth silence, because he hath borne it upon him.

He putteth his mouth in the dust; if so there may be hope.

He giveth his cheek to him that smiteth him: he is filled full with reproach.

But though he cause grief, yet will he have compassion according to the multitude of his mercies.

Change

MEN often feel the need of change
From daily stress and care
To scenes more beautiful and strange,
To sea or mountain air.

For many know the weariness
Of toil without release,
The weights of waxing cares that press
Too heavily for peace.

And yet, this boon the heart desires,
This rest it longs to win,
This calm to quench too ardent fires,
May those not dwell within?

This change men need, may it not lie
Within the soul's domain,
The blue of hope's unclouded sky,
The lilt of joy's refrain?

And with the change from doubt to faith,
From fear to quiet trust,
Life, freed from every gloomy wraith,
Will beckon, joyous, just!

The Fallen Span

By Herbert Kaufman

MR. ROCKEFELLER has been witnessing the glory that was Egypt. He has visited the Pyramids, gazed upon the Sphinx, wondered how the mighty plinths at Karnak were transported and placed, and will doubtless drop a few millions of backsheesh into the hands of its government, for the amelioration and education of fellaheen classes.

But if the past could speak, Mr. Rockefeller might learn some things to the advantage of his own times and country—especially about surgery and therapeutics, whose machinery he so generously lubricates with a Standard Oil can.

Her vanished physicians would inform him how they established fixed rules for the treatment of cases, as a check on quackery and empiricism—which is a high-falutin' name for guesswork.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 12.—Freezing weather and attending physical discomforts bring a spiritual chill to the Bowery and lower East Side. Sidewalks and doorways are well nigh deserted.

Youngsters, sewed in garments for the season, no longer make the streets their playground. Everybody moves indoors to peer out upstairs windows at the melancholy desolation. Nothing matters save the arrival of Spring and release from the long isolation.

The East Side's main joy of living is in its neighborliness—the trifling sort of gossip of the small town. On summer days they chatter back and forth from open windows and fire escapes like magpies. But winter seals them in and cuts off this friendly intimacy.

Uptown, winter brings a snap and verve, especially along Broadway, Fifth and Park avenues. But among tenements there is mostly brooding. They are ever conscious of the bread lines and those other visible tokens of the misery acute poverty brings.

The usual sullenness of the Bowery is enhanced by the overshadowing elevated structure. The sun, moon and stars are almost strangers. In the foggy light of all night missions blurry figures kneel half heartedly in prayer. They come chiefly for bread and hot coffee.

In the lodging houses are drooping figures exhausted from heavy labor and those sleeping off the befogging effects of too much "Bowery smoke"—a lethal mixture at 10 cents a shot. In the barber colleges, customers stand in line waiting free applications of hot towels to keep warm.

All dull edges of squalor are pronounced in winter. The most brilliantly lighted windows are those of pawn shops, revealing their jinkle jumble. The busiest spots are the cellar reliever shops where one may pawn old garments for still older garments and acquire a few extra pennies.

A paradox in the Bowery squalor is the Bowery Savings Bank—one of the richest banking institutions in the world and patronized chiefly by residents of the lower East Side. Which proves the Bowery is not all poverty. It merely shows a ragged sleeve to the world.

In a number of ways the narrow, twisted streets of Chinatown are the most interesting in the city. The Chinese somehow manage to express a pronounced security above their sordid surroundings. There are no Chinese mendicants and it is said 80 per cent of them have bank accounts, and most of the older Chinese support wives and relatives in their native land, which costs about a dime a day. Marry in China and see the world!

A chop suey parlor in Chinatown insists upon diners being shown through their kitchen before the meal is served. It is as spotless as a newly scrubbed pine table top. The cook and helpers are in immaculate white uniforms and the display does add zest to the food. Yet I could never regard chop suey with anything but suspicion.

An amusing deceit is employed in Chinese shops by clerks. Most visitors address them in pidgin English and receive replies in the singsong manner. The majority of clerks were born in America, many were graduated from Columbia and speak perfect English. But their gentle camouflage heightens the abraca—spell it yourself.

In a list of instructions to chauffeurs, a rental agency suggests: "Remember to be neat about your neck and shoulders. It is your back view that makes an impression." And that we suppose, after an hour of silent meditation, is why the chauffeur rarely needs a hair trim, but quite often a shoe shine.

There seems to be no respect for gray hairs any more. A ragged little street gamin in front of a theater crowd in West Forty-seventh street last evening called out to a certain aging newspaper columnist: "Hey, Handsome, what time is it?" And did he turn red!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU complain because you have so little money, but perhaps it is a good thing for you.

Have you ever thought what you would do if you had a big sum come into your possession unexpectedly?

Perhaps you have planned some wild times among more sedate ones.

Would these wild times do credit to your common sense?

Of course not, so perhaps it is better you have not shown your lack of balance so far because you have not had an opportunity.

There are a lot of things you would like to do that are every day experiences to the man of means.

There are also a lot of risky things as far as reputation is concerned, and many rich men think their money will carry them—their standing will allow them to take this sort of chance.

So far your life has been uneventful but you have not done anything disgraceful and you have kept your own self-respect.

Are you sure you could say as much if a fortune had been yours from the start?

To be respected and honored is worth far more than financial solidity.

Money might be a curse to you.
